FOUR DIE IN APARTMENT FIRE. Four small children from the same family perished in this fire which gutted their living quarters in an apartment house in Rankin, Pa., near Pittsburgh. Victims were Barbara Allen, 6; Carol Anne, 4; Dennis, 3, and Raymond, 17 months. Their mother tried to save them, but she fell down stairs while carrying the baby. Here firemen are pouring water on the smoking building.

French Fail In 3 Attempts To Pick Chief

Parliament Taking Unprecedented 4th Ballot on President

VERSAILLES, France (AP) — France's badly divided Parliament failed again today to elect a president of the republic in an unprecedented third round of voting.

None of the three candidates left in the contest got near enough votes for election.

Premier Joseph Laniel, wealthy industrialist, wound up with 358, Socialist candidate Marcel-Edmond Naegelen 313, and Radical Socialist Yvon Delbos 225. Foreign Minister Georges Bidault withdrew just before the third round of voting began.

The joint session of Parliament cast 26 votes for a varied assortment of men who were not officially candidates. Thus the number of votes needed for election was 462.

A fourth ballot is now required to try to break the deadlock. That will begin at about 2:30 p.m. EST.

Naegelen Leader

Naegelen led with 29 of the 923 votes cast by members of the National Assembly and Senate in the second ballot last night. Laniel had 276, Delbos 185 and Bidault, of the Catholic-dominated Popular Republican Movement 143.

A majority of the votes cast is required for election to the seven-year term to succeed President Vincent Auriol. Never before in French history have as many as three ballots been required. Each ballot is a four-hour affair, since each member must walk to the rostrum and drop his secret ballot into an urn.

The voting takes place in the old legislative chamber built in 1871 in the courtyard of the Palace of Versailles, ancient home of French kings.

Reds Back Naegelen

Though the presidency is largely a ceremonial post with almost no power, the candidates' views and beliefs were playing a big part in the corridor politicking.

The Communists after the first ballot threw their support to Naegelen because he and the Socialists, like the Reds, oppose the European army. Some observers thought the Red switch might be the kiss of death.

Because Bidault's party is as close to a church faction as any

Drop Brings Stalled Cars, Rush on Fuel

Low of 5 Above Seen Tonight; Forecast Is Warmer for Weekend

A temperature of three degrees below zero, the coldest of the year in Marion, was recorded at the weather station this morning. It marked the third straight day the mercury has plunged near the zero mark.

The previous low mark this year was one above zero recorded in January.

Many Autos Stalled

Stalled cars and a rise in use of heating fuels were among the results of the extreme cold. Marion garages this morning reported receiving at least 50 calls from motorists who couldn't get their cars started.

The cold spell gave children at St. Mary School a break. The school boiler broke down Thursday morning, and the Christmas vacation was started at noon Thursday instead of at 3 p.m. today as previously scheduled.

Classes at Harding High School were dismissed this morning following a scheduled concert by the choir. School officials explained a part for one of the boilers had broken. A new part due to arrive by plane today was delayed enroute.

Gymnasium Heated

Heat was supplied for the gymnasium where the concert was held, but the rest of the building was too cold to permit holding regular classes.

Gas usage has tripled this week as compared with last week, a spokesman for the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. reported. He said there have been a few calls from residents in the north section of town complaining of low pressure.

Most coal and fuel oil dealers reported this morning a rise in orders.

Some Oil Dealers Swamped

Coal dealers said orders had increased slightly since the advent of the cold wave, but they did not call it an actual rush. Instead, they termed it an "upsurge" in the number of sales.

Fuel oil dealers were varied in their reports, some saying they were swamped with extra orders,

PLEDGES SPENDING REDUCTION. President Eisenhower raises his arm to emphasize a point during the opening of a White House conference on his 1954 legislative program. Ike promised GOP congressional leaders a "further reduction" of government spending next year. With the President is House speaker Joseph W. Martin (R) of Massachusetts.

Die in Gas Chamber

Greenlease Killers Meet Death Calmly

Editor's Note—The writer of the following story was one of three newsmen who witnessed the Hall-Heady execution.

BY LARRY HALL

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady died together in the gas chamber early today for the kidnap slaying of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease, still talking calmly to each other as the deadly fumes rolled up around their faces.

Just before he was taken into the gas tank at the Missouri State Prison, Hall, the 34-year-old wastrel heir to a $200,000 fortune, puffed on a cigarette. He passed it to Mrs. Heady, his 41-year-old paramour, for a puff as they talked for the last time.

'Doing All Right?'

When they were strapped into the chairs, Mrs. Heady asked Hall:

"Are you doing all right, honey?"

"Yes, Mama," Hall replied.

His lips were red as if he had received a last kiss from the plump, dark-haired woman who helped him kidnap and slay little Bobby Sept. 28.

The prison was quiet as the notorious pair went to their deaths. Seven degree cold kept the crowd outside at a minimum.

As the official witnesses walked through the darkness of the prison courtyard, Christmas decorations made by convicts sparkled on the trees and bushes.

Elaborate security precautions had been made, with extra guards and highway patrolmen brought in for the execution. But the extra men were not needed. There was no outburst from the 2,500 convicts.

Parade of Witnesses

As the parade of witnesses followed the death cars down to the gas chamber, one convict shouted from his cell: "Pour it on 'em."

Warden Ralph N. Eidson, who tripped the lever which sent cyanide gas curling around the faces of the kidnapers in a white cloud, said the pair had been "just as normal as they could be" since they entered the prison Nov. 20.

"I don't think we've had any more normal prisoners than they were down here," he said.

The Rev. George L. Evans, Episcopal rector from Kansas City, Kan., who was Hall's spiritual adviser, said both prisoners were "absolutely and completely reconciled" to death.

"They are prepared to meet Almighty God," he said after praying with them in the death chamber.

Show No Sign of Fear

Neither of the kidnapers showed any outward signs of fear although Hall breathed deeply while being strapped into the death chair. The chamber door clanged shut on them at 12:04 a.m. Thirty seconds later Warden Eidson tripped the lever which dropped cyanide powder into two jars of sulphuric acid beneath the death chairs.

White fumes rose around the couple. Hall took a big gulp as the fumes hit his face but Mrs. Heady appeared to hold her breath for an instant.

Their heads jerked back. There were a few convulsive movements. Both were unconscious almost at once.

At 12:12 a.m. Hall was dead. Mrs. Heady kept breathing for another 2 minutes and 10 seconds.

One of the prison doctors, G.

Prison's Yule Lights Turned Off for Slayers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—The Christmas lights at Missouri State Prison were turned out for the Greenlease kidnap killers in the early hours today.

The drab prison yard had been decorated by convicts with brightly trimmed Christmas trees. But when Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady were brought from death row to the gas chamber the lights were turned off.

Soon after the double execution the lights came back on, even though most of the 2,500 convicts had gone back to bed.

Within an hour after the execution, the prison was deathly quiet. Even Sammy Reese, who has been waiting 18 months in death row, went back to sleep. Today he is the only prisoner left there. He is awaiting outcome of an appeal from a death sentence for killing a St. Louis hotel clerk.

Kidnaper Hall, 34-year-old son of a prominent Kansas country lawyer, left little behind in his cell besides the cigarette butts he had tossed into a corner in his last hours. The only personal articles were a toothbrush and a couple of short pencils.

Mrs. Heady, the 41-year-old divorcee, left even less. All that remained in her cell was a pencil drawing she had sketched on the wall of a big-chested, moustached baseball player leaning on a bat.

The couple had been separated in death row by six cells. They had their last visit in the detention cell at the gas chamber just before they died.

Meeting Slated On Ohio Atom Plant Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — A labor-management panel of the Atomic Energy Commission meets again today at 1 p. m. EST in an effort to settle a wage dispute at the Portsmouth, Ohio area atomic energy plant.

The panel's recommendation, panel Member Thomas Holland told a reporter, should be ready this afternoon.

The dispute is between Peter Kiewit Sons' Co., prime construction contractor at the plant, and Local 308, AFL-Office Employes International.

The panel heard testimony from both sides yesterday. The union seeks a pay raise for the plant's approximately 1,000 office workers, and threatens to strike if its demands are not met.

The company is represented at the hearing by David Coyne, personnel manager and others. Joseph Finley, AFL attorney, and others represent the union.

POWs To Get Final Chance At Repatriation

Hope Fades for Allied Teams To Meet With Prisoners by Deadline

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The top neutral officer in Korea indicated today that reluctant war prisoners —including the 22 Americans—may get one last chance to change their mind after the explanation period ends.

Meanwhile, hopes dwindled that Allied persuasion teams will meet the Americans before the deadline next Wednesday midnight.

Delay Action

The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission put off until Monday consideration of demands by pro-Communist South Korean prisoners which the Americans and one British prisoner say must be met before they will attend interviews.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the repatriation commission, said in answer to written questions from newsmen that he might "take up at a later date" the possibility of screening all prisoners who have refused to return to their homelands.

Although Thimayya said he had "no plan, either concrete or tentative," there has been speculation he would give the POWs one last chance—without any coercion. He said six weeks ago he planned on it.

Individual Choice

At that time he suggested he would station an Indian officer in a hut, have all POWs remaining in neutral custody file through individually, and express their desire in one word — "repatriation" or "nonrepatriation."

Other Indian officers offered another simple plan: have the prisoners walk single file, a considerable distances from each other, down a narrow Y-shaped path. One arm would lead to repatriation, the other back to the Indian-guarded compound in the neutral zone.

A South Korean prisoner who fled from the pro-Communist compound Wednesday said four Americans and about 20 South Koreans might return home if given a chance. A total of 77 Koreans remain to be interviewed by the Allies.

Estimates 2,500 To Switch

Thimayya has estimated that as many as 2,500 Koreans and Chinese among about 20,000 Allied captives who have not been interviewed would choose repatriation.

With time running out on the stalemated explanations, the Allied command laid plans to reach the former U.N. soldiers in ways other than face-to-face meetings.

U.S. officers said possibilities included loudspeaker broadcasts of Christmas carols, holiday messages from friends and relatives and "come home" appeals from speakers set up outside prison compounds.

Color Telecasts Still in Future For Most Fans

Receivers Are Likely To Be Too Costly for Potential Customers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The gateway to a color television era has been pushed open anew by the government, but color TV for the average fan is still many months and many hundreds of dollars away.

Virtually no color receivers are available to the public now and probably won't be for months, or longer. And when they do come, industry sources estimate a color set with a 12½-inch picture will cost about $1,000 at first. Mass production is expected to bring the price down later.

For broadcasters, too, color TV will mean big outlays of money.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) announced late yesterday its approval of a new color broadcasting system.

Almost at once, networks were on the air with color telecasts, racing to be first. Owners of present sets could see them in the usual black and white.

FCC emphasized that point in approving a new system replacing one developed by the Columbia Broadcasting System and approved by the commission in 1950.

The new system was developed by the industry through its National Television System Committee (NTSC) and was proposed for adoption by the commission last August. Commission approval means it will standardize color

Cardinal Spellman Leaves for Korea

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, loaded with gifts, left by plane today to spend Christmas with American forces in Korea for the fourth time.

"It's a place I would rather be than any other place in the world at Christmas," the Catholic prelate commented as he boarded a Northwest Airliner at Idlewild Airport for Anchorage, Alaska.

He will spend two days in Alaska, visiting Army and Air Force men.

Cardinal Spellman took with him a half million cigarettes, 25,000 religious medals, 25,000 holy pictures, four moving picture prints of Notre Dame 1953 football highlights and two prints of a "Dragnet" television program which has a Christmas theme.

The cardinal will leave Anchorage Monday, arriving in Tokyo Tuesday.

Holiday Vacation Starts Today for Pupils in City

Christmas vacation started this afternoon for all Marion city school students, except those already dismissed because of the cold weather Schools in the county are scheduled to dismiss next week, and all classes will be resumed Monday, Jan 4.

Marion County schools scheduled to dismiss Wednesday, Dec. 23, are: Prospect, Caledonia, LaRue and Waldo.

Vacation will begin Thursday, Dec. 24, for Claridon, Grand Prairie, Meeker, Morral, Martel, Pleasant, Green Camp, and New Bloom-

Postoffice To Remain Open Longer Saturday

The Marion postoffice will be open until 6 p.m. tomorrow for the sale of postage stamps and the mailing of packages, Postmaster Homer D. Cole announced today.

The postoffice normally closes at 12 noon on Saturdays.

Cole reported that while heavy Christmas mailing has already begun, he believes it has yet to reach its peak.

Yesterday the postoffice had approximately 150,000 cancellations, compared to an average daily figure of 25 to 30 thousand.

The local postoffice is employing 66 extra workers to help out during the holiday rush period.

Conferences Continue

Ike, Party Leaders Work on Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Republican leaders of Congress turned to taxes, the national debt limit, atomic energy and foreign affairs today in a second round of White House conferences to hammer out a new legislative program.

Social security and aid to the physically handicapped, as well as a continuing discussion of national health problems, also were on the agenda with Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Hobby presenting her views at this morning's session.

Meet With Party Heads

Eisenhower and key staff members met with GOP congressional leaders and a succession of Cabinet members for the second straight day, continuing the process of deciding what recommendations the administration will make to Congress when it reconvenes early next month.

At 9:30 a. m. EST, an hour after today's session began, Eisenhower issued a statement telling what was under discussion

He said Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey would discuss "taxes and the debt limit."

Eisenhower gave no particulars.

The President said Lewis Strauss, chairma of the Atomic Energy Commission would discuss "proposed amendments to the atomic energy act" with the congressional leaders including Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R—NY) and Sen. Hickenlooper (R—Iowa), chairman and vice chairman respectively of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

Mrs. Hobby Takes Part

In addition, Eisenhower said Mrs. Hobby would discuss "social security and aid to the physically handicapped, as well as continuing a discussion (which began yesterday) of the health plans of her department."

This afternoon, following a White House luncheon of the legislative leaders and committee chairmen most concerned with today's subjects, the chief topic will be agriculture, with Secretary of Agriculture Benson presenting the administration's plans.

Eisenhower has promised to lay before Congress a progressive, long range program after a special advisory commission studying the question has made a report to him.

In advance of the White House meeting, Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said in an interview he sees no reason to change his consistent opposition to "giving away our atomic secrets to any foreign countries."

Eisenhower has said he will ask Congress to relax some of the present statutory provisions against

Arson Agents Check Chicago Fire Fatal to 6

CHICAGO (AP)—Arson squad detectives investigated today whether a recently released mental patient set the skid row hotel fire yesterday in which he was burned fatally and which brought death to five firemen in collapsing wreckage.

A note found on the body of John Tybor, 38, hinted he had done so, It said.

'I am really crazy, I killed only 15 people. I also set fire to 12 apt. buildings."

Tybor, released Wednesday from the State Hospital for Mental patients at Manteno, Ill., had registered at the Reliance Hotel, 1702 W. Madison St. Wednesday night. His body was found in the basement beneath a section of the building where the first flames were seen.

Twenty-four other firemen, who were searching and inspecting the ruins when three walls of the three-story brick building collapsed, were injured. Only one was still in critical condition.

Hours of frantic hand digging by other firemen freed the injured who were trapped in the ice-coated heaps of bricks, twisted beams and splintered furniture.

Christmas Suggestion

Food, Clothing and Toys Will Cheer This Family

This is one of a series describing families and individuals listed with "Give A Christmas" clearinghouse sponsored by the Junior Service Guild at the Salvation Army. Any organization or individual wishing to contribute may obtain the name of a needy family by calling the clearinghouse secretary at 3-2415 before Dec. 24.

A family of a grandmother, a married daughter and three children, in order to have a happy Christmas are in need of "Give A Christmas" aid of food as well as clothing and toys.

The family receives a little help from other family members but not enough to make ends meet. The married daughter must depend on public aid and what day work she can obtain.

The children, Leroy, 5, Susie, 3, and Jenny, 2, have been looking forward to receiving toys for Christmas but funds in the family just do not provide for these things.

Leroy would like to have a cowboy doll all his own and he also loves toy cars of all kinds. Each of the girls, Susie and Jenny, would like to have a doll. Food also is needed to make it a happy holiday season for the family.

Another case in the "Give A Christmas" files involves a 13-year-old boy.

He has been observed looking longingly at bicycle accessories at a local store, but he has no hopes of getting them because he has had no father at his home for a long time.

One of the accessories would make him very happy at Christmastime. He has tried to earn money but has not found the opportunity.

Guided Missile Film Released

Army Lifts Secrecy Lid On Deadly 'Nike' Rocket

BY ELTN C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army took some of the secrecy wraps off its uncanny, bomber-hunter guided missile last night and said the first battery of an eventual national system of such antiaircraft weapons is being emplaced.

On the basis of official disclosures, an Army motion picture and other information available, it may be said the guided missile, named Nike, can:

1. Streak at an enemy bomber at a speed of probably 1,500 miles an hour.

2. Locate and track the plane, despite evasive action, and destroy it in flaming wreckage even though the missile contacts only an outer part of a wing.

3. "Knock down a jet-powered aircraft of any known capacity" in speed or maneuverability.

The first Nike unit is being set up at Ft. Meade, Md., headquarters of the 2nd Army. From there Nike missles can provide protection for an area embracing the nation's capital, Baltimore's big industries and port facilities and a number of military installations in the Chesapeake bay and Potomac River region

The Army calls the Nike "the first guided missile system to defend American cities against aerial attack."

Taken literally, that appeared to be correct. It is the first missile antiaircraft system for protection of U. S. cities. But the Air Force and Navy have under test or on hand for operational use at least

$1,200 Blaze Strikes House

3 Other Fires Cause No Loss in Marion

Four fire alarms were answered during the past 20 hours by Marion City Firemen. Three resulted in no loss, but in the fourth, firemen estimated there was about $1,200 damage.

At 6:17 this morning, the furnace in the home of Mrs. Helen Jerew, 183 Silver St., overheated, setting fire to partitions in the basement. Flames spread into the upper part of the house, forcing Mrs. Jerew and three families rooming with her out of the house.

Firemen from the Mark St. and Central Sations fought the fire for two hours. They estimated loss to the house at about $1,000, while contents, which were destroyed or damaged, were valued at $200.

No loss was reported from a fire at the home of William Gannon, 454 Grant St. at 2:03 p.m. Thursday. Firemen reported an oil stove exploded, but did no damage. Trucks and men from the Mark St. and Central Stations answered the call.

A township alarm turned out to be a bonfire at the rear of the home of Mrs. Mary Bracey, between Woodrow and Herbert Roads. Neighbors who saw the flames, apparently thought the house was on fire and summoned trucks from the Central and W. Center St. stations.

A burned-out chimney at the home of Jesse Downs, 559 Davids St., caused no damage according to firemen who were called to the home. Men from the W. Center St. station answered the call.

Cincinnatian Held in Fatal Wife Beating

CINCINNATI (AP)—Eugene Childress, 34, was held today in connection with the fatal beating of his wife, Sylvia, 25, who was pronounced dead this morning in the hospital where he is an engineer.

Two of the couple's three children, Jimmy, 8, and Eugene Jr., 7, and Mrs. Louisa Hudson, there maternal grandmother, said they saw Childress hit and kick his wife.

The beating followed an automobile trip to Hamilton where Christmas presents were bought, Mrs. Hudson told police.

She said throughout the drive she saw Childress drink one bottle of beer after another. He bumped into one automobile here, she said.

Mrs. Hudson said she got out of the car to go to church last night after returning from Hamilton, and the others drove home.

She said when she went to the apartment she found Childress striking his wife and kicking her. Childress, she told officers, refused to let her use the telephone, so she called from another apartment.

Another member of the family said she called a doctor who refused to go to the house because of an alleged unpaid bill.

Mrs. Childress then was removed to General Hospital, where her husband is an engineer, and was pronounced dead.

Childress said he remembered nothing about the beating. He was arrested before his wife's death on a charge of disorderly conduct, preferred by Mrs. Hudson.

Ike's Biggest Headache

Economy Fight Shatters Congressional Harmony

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Just about the nicest Christmas gift for President Eisenhower would be a package of party harmony, wrapped in a guarantee that all Republicans in 1954 would see eye to eye on everything of importance.

Its a gift he wont get.

Two of the most powerful Republicans in Congress yesterday came out of a White House conference with Eisenhower disagreeing.

One was the 73-year-old John Taber with a face stern enough to be Biblical. Taber, a New York lawyer, built himself a reputation thundering for economy.

The other was Dewy Short of Missouri, 55, pink-cheked and balding. The highly educated Short, who went to Oxford and taught philosophy, has long been one of the main oratorical attractions of the House.

He first went there in 1929, five years after Taber. Short is an orator with gestures which are sometimes as good as the oratory. Short's speeches bring Democrats and Republicans from offices and cloakrooms to listen, and watch.

Leaving the White House, Taber, who once advocated a meat ax approach to government spending, said optimistically he thought next year's budget could stand big cuts. Short didn't see big cuts at all.

As chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, where all government spending bills have to start, Taber is in a prime position to try to make his predictions of yesterday come true.

All the agency and department heads must parade before him and his committee to explain why they think they need the money the budget says they need. It's the Taber committee's job to keep spending down.

Short, however, is chairman of the powerful House Armed Services Committee, which gives him a wide view and deep knowledge of the needs of the armed forces.

Since the money which Eisenhower will ask Congress to appropriate for the armed forces will make up by far the biggest item of government spending, Taber will probably try his biggest cuts there.

Taber and Short both sounded off before the budget itself was complete. The Eisenhower administration has been preparing it for months to submit to Congress in January.

Particularly the estimated spending for the armed forces isn't finished yet.

Nevertheless, the budget was one of next year's problems which Eisenhower discussed with Republican congressional leaders in going over the program he'll offer Congress in January.

The general public will be hearing about the budget, cutting it and balancing it, from now until next summer when Congress will finally finish voting the money for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Taber and Short symbolize the differences which will spring up in Congress among Republicans over government spending, even under Republicans.

The more Eisenhower gets into his program, the more differences hell see among his Republicans.

In the end he may have to depend on Democrats, who weren't invited to the White House, to help him get his program over.

But if it's any comfort to him, he can remember that former President Truman had a similar problem with his Democrats when he sat in the White House.

Frittered Away Hours Add Up

Waste Time? More Than You Believe

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Do we waste more time in our lives than we actually live?

I have been mulling over this problem ever since reading a U.S. Public Health Service estimate that the average man spends 427 days of his life shaving or getting haircuts.

Just how much time do we actually fritter away in the other daily chores of living, chores that subtract from our allotted span but sometimes don't add much to it in the way of pleasure?

Let us take a typical, bald-headed, overweight husband of 50, who has two grown children and four grandchildren. Here is part of the box score of how he has spent his days:

Time spent courting the wrong girls before his wife overtook him—two years.

Time spent waiting for his children to pick out the kind of candy they wanted at the candy store—four months.

Time spent pounding on the bathroom door to make some other member of the family get out and let him in—three months.

Time spent waiting for wife to get dressed—12 years.

Time spent explaining the facts of life to his children—10 minutes.

Time spent telling children how much harder he worked when he was their age—one year.

Time spent trying to attract attention of restaurant waiter—two years.

Time spent holding telephone and waiting between moment a secretary's voice says, "Mr. Jones calling," and moment when Mr. Jones finally says "hello"—three years.

Time spent listening to wife—one year.

Time spent answering wife's complaint, "Why don't you ever listen to what I tell you?"—six years.

Time spent explaining to boss why he didn't do something the boss didn't believe should be done at the time but later decided was absolutely vital to the continued existence of the firm—five years.

Time spent wondering why he had come to a cocktail party he never wished to attend anyway—four years.

Time spent listening to after dinner speakers—eight years.

Time wasted in figuring how to balance the household budget—one year.

Time wasted in brooding about it later—two years.

Time spent waiting for car ahead of him to start after green traffic light comes on—five months.

Time spent bawling out driver of car behind who honked at him because he was slow in starting—seven months.

Time spent fumbling in pockets for change—one year.

Time spent denouncing the government, taxes, high cost of living and other things he has no control over—12 years.

Time spent in helping his fellow man and praising the departed guest of honor at funerals—15 days.

Time spent waiting for sleeping pills and aspirin tablets to take effect—two years.

Time spent in feeling sorry for himself and brooding over man's inhumanity to man—24 years.

Time spent in church (counting only waking hours and including his own marriage)—8 days, 4 hours, 3 minutes.

Time spent on golf course waiting for foursome ahead of him to get on to next hole—three months.

Time wasted trying to save falling hair after it is too late—four years.

Time spent waiting in doctor's and dentist's offices—two years.

Time wasted getting out of dentists chair—none.

Time spent justifying income tax returns so as to avoid going to jail—two months.

Time wasted complaining about it to friends—four months.

Time spent in jail—none.

Time spent serving on jury—15 days.

Time spent trying to avoid jury duty—30 days.

This box score shows the average 50-year-old American husband has spent 94 years, 6 months, 8 days, 4 hours and 13 minutes either performing what he regards as the chores of living—or avoiding doing them. It doesn't include the time he spends shaving, getting a haircut, or looking through drawers for a clean shirt.

Naturally, also, it doesn't include the time he has spent sleeping or feeling grateful for being alive.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Mediation Board today asked the AFL railway clerks union to call of its strike of Railway Express Agency employes at Detroit, Pittsburgh and Milwaukee.

He claims to have given the "first permanent wave in the state of Ohio."

Little Headwater Dams To Replace Big Projects

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has announced approval of 20 more small watersheds including one at Upper Hocking River, taking in Hunter's Run in Fairfield County, Ohio.

D. A. Williams, administrator of the Soil Conservation Service, said the series of little dams on farms and upstream areas built under a five million dollar pilot program authorized by Congress will replace the past system of constructing multi-million dollar flood control dams downstream.

Detroiter Finds Home In House of Correction

DETROIT (AP)—Michael (Mike) Colonski, 63, is back in a warm, snug place where he already has spent 330 of 1953's 365 days. It is the Detroit House of Correction.

Recorder's Judge O. Z. Ide greeted Mike's appearance yesterday with: "What can I do for the dean of drunks today?"

"It's real cold out, judge," Mike replied, "I'm hungry. It's Christmas, you know."

"Sure, Mike, how's 90 days?" the judge asked as he scanned a record showing 145 arrests for drunkenness or vagrancy over Mike's last 30 years. Mike smiled as he was led away.

Beria Reaps His Whirlwind

If the Kremlin puts Beria and the others who will share his fate on display before they are shot in the head, the world will have much to gain.

Another Kremlin purge occurring in the light of what has been learned about the Communist despotism since Stalin murdered his "friends" will make it clear that no Communist anywhere has a more secure claim on his own life than the whim of the newest dictator in the Kremlin permits him to have.

Malenkov must murder his rivals to make sure they don't murder him. When he, in turn, finally is murdered—as Stalin may have been murdered—there will be a new dictator and a new purge.

Here in full force is the naked illustration of the monstrosity of the claim that the Communist conspiracy is based on an ideology.

It is nothing more than a conspiracy of power-crazed politicians clawing at one another's throats in the guise of carrying on an ideological crusade. There is no idea in the conspiracy which cannot be scuttled in as brief a time as it will take Beria's life to drain away when his turn comes to reap the whirlwind of sudden death he sowed tirelessly when he and Stalin were on top.

The Russian purge trials of the late thirties were a puzzle to outsiders, who then had not grasped the central fact underlying the Communist conspiracy—that it is an endless scramble for survival by politicians corrupted absolutely by absolute power.

In this snake pit of violence there is no semblance of government as such—no pretense of a guiding philosophy or popular support. Today's government official becomes tomorrow's victim of grim assassination.

If the Kremlin puts Beria and his fellow victims on display before murdering them for phony convictions on trumped-up charges which not even the gullible will be able to take seriously this time, there will be room for further doubt about the Kremlin.

It is not a seat of government but a fortress of misrule held by assassins whose violence against one another occasionally claims a few hundred thousand innocent victims as a blood sacrifice to their personal ambitions.

America's 157 Urbanized Areas

While popular attention is fixed on the White House civil-defense conference of 175 mayors and city managers, it might be possible to clear up legislative confusion about the cities they represent.

According to the Bureau of the Census, there were 157 "urbanized areas" in 1950. These were areas in which there was at least one city of 50,000 with a population density of at least 500 dwellings per square mile on its fringes.

This was the first time the Census Bureau defined the modern city, which is entirely different from the bound-in cities of yesterday. About half the population of the United States now lives in these 157 key areas. They contain about 70 per cent of the total urban population.

They would be high-priority targets in any strategy to cripple the United States by aerial warfare. They contain the technical installations which hold the country together. Without them, there could be no communications system and no industrial production.

In peacetime they produce the bulk of the federal government's tax revenue and the industrial wealth which underlies buying power. Some of them overshadow even the states in which they are situated. All of them have long since been far more important than the relics of the original horse-and-buggy governments set up by the original settlers.

There should be a White House conference sometime on the problems of these city states, now regarded as the backbone of America by everybody but the members of archaic state legislatures who still prefer to think of government in terms of township boundaries, county lines and state sovereignty.

Under Investigation

Two outstanding amateur athletes, Mal Whitfield and West Santee, both track stars, cannot be considered for this year's Sullivan award because they are under investigation, according to the Amateur Athletic Union.

The investigation, it appears, is an open-end proposition having to do with some unconfirmed reports of questionable conduct while Whitfield and Santee were putting on running exhibitions in Europe last summer.

They deny any wrong-doing and suggest they are being made the victims of spite work by certain Europeans whose fur they rubbed the wrong way by demanding their rights. But their denials are no match for the accusations.

They are being barred from consideration for the most coveted award available to an amateur athlete in the United States because they are under investigation. Tough luck, Mal and Wes.

These are strange times when a mere accusation of wrong-doing is worse than an indictment on a charge of wrong-doing because the charge must be proved and the accusation can be left dangling in mid-air indefinitely.

Voters Have Last Word

By David Lawrence

Theorists Overlook Power of Public Opinion

President Eisenhower faces a problem in practical government which no amount of theory can solve. It is how to get a legislative program enacted that will redound to the credit and benefit of the Republicans who are up for election iin the 1954 congressional campaign.

The theorists — among them the amateurs who have been telling the President it's just a little matter of freezing out "reactionaries" and going to the "left" or to the "liberal side" — talk as if a congressional election and a presidential campaign are one and the same thing.

Actually there is no sharply defined cleavage inside the Republican party which can be characterized as "left" and "right."

THERE ARE some senators, for example, who are more conservative than others, but that's the situation inside the Democratic party, too.

The fact is that there can be no generalizations on a legislative program. There will be one lineup on amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act and another lineup on increasing social-security benefits. There's to be one kind of vote on a new farm program which, in lineup, will not resemble in the slightest the vote on increasing or diminishing economic aid abroad.

The fallacy in White House thinking — that is, the thinking of those who pour their theories into the President's ears — seems to be that the President must assert his "leadership" by bludgeoning members of his party and threatening them with some form of reprisal if they don't toe the mark.

THE REPRISALS, for instance, would be the activities of a revived Citizens-for-Eisenhower movement, which would presumably go into the primaries and help punish Republican senators and representatives who had refused to be "rubber stamps."

The idea seems to be developing hereabouts that a president is a kind of benevolent dictator and that Congress is a sort of subordinate agency of the government which hasn't much knowledge about what the people want, anyhow.

Omniscience is supposed to reside chiefly in the White House secretariat, which strives hard to give the impression that the Republican party as such is somehow without respectability and needs something called "liberalism" of the leftish sort to give it a majority at the polls.

The belief persists that Eisenhower can by some magic convert many of the Stevenson and Truman followers and make up for the loss of conservative votes — those who started out sponsoring Taft in early 1952.

AS THE FACTS of political life and congressional reality come into view, it will be found that the Democrats who stuck by Stevenson and Truman for the most part cannot be weaned away. They are too far over to the "left" in the Northern States to be drawn away by a "pseudo-liberalism," as they call it.

Just why a Democratic congressman should vote for all the Eisenhower programs and go before his constituency as a Democrat next time seems not to have occurred to those at the White House who are looking for Democratic votes in Congress to offset all Republican defections.

Any attempt to force Republican members of Congress to swallow the whole Eisenhower program without crossing a "T" or dotting an "I" will be met with the same defeat that other presidents have encountered when they tried to bulldoze or "purge" members of their own party.

Mr. Eisenhower can try for the help of Democrats in Congress, but he would be better advised also to find the common denominator of Republican strength and mould his policies accordingly.

IN AN ELECTION year most of the opposition members of Congress will say they favor the "principle" but they want to see "certain amendments" adopted and if, as usually happehs, these are not accepted by the administration in power, then its opponents will vote against the measure on final passage.

Bipartisan voting may be expected on labor legislation and on farm legislation but on not much else. On other questions, the Democratic party line-up is likely to hold tightly.

Republican defections are probable because of local situations. A story is told about President Harding, who vetoed a soldier's bonus bill in the '20's and in conference with a Republican congressman urged him to uphold the veto, but back came this reply: "I'm sorry, Mr. President, I'd like to please you, but unfortunately you don't vote in my district."

That's the practical side of any presidential program of legislation, and it will decide the fate of the Eisenhower program, too.

Public opinion throughout the United States in 531 districts still decides elections — not a few theorists in the Washington bureaucracy.

Victory at Any Cost

By TRUMAN TWILL

A ballplayer named Tebbetts was raked ever so gently over the coals the other day by Grantland Rice, the sports columnist, for saying there is only one thing to think about in baseball—to win—fairly if possible but otherwise to win at any cost.

Since Tebbetts, who earned a reputation as a fierce competitor during his own playing days, is going to manage the Cincinnati Reds next year, Rice predicted an unhappy future for him if he could find nothing to think about but winning. The Redlegs figure to lose about as often as they figure to win.

But Tebbetts is right about winning being the No. 1 consideration, rules or no rules. As Leo Durocher once put it, in a crack which made many a sports fan wince, "Nice guys never win." The mean guys take advantage of them; that was Durocher's idea. He personally bears a well earned reputation for being one of the mean guys.

Managers, expecially, are kept under the gun in the matter of winning. Anything they do which can be twisted by critics into a sign of ethics is construed as weakness unless it leads to victory. Tebbetts, who has been around long enough to know that losing managers are expendable, has the right idea about holding his job. He must win, rules or no rules.

Baseball is not cricket.

It ain't tennis, you know.

It's not a contest between gentlemen who defer to one another in many small ways and lean over backward to stay inside the meaning of the rules.

It's more like football where a thumb in the eye and the art of flinging the potentially lethal blow at a foe off guard have become sound practice; where a coach or a team taking advantage of the rules to win an advantage over an opponent will get nationwide credit for being "smart" and "heads up."

It is like prizefighting, where the backhand swipe, the rabbit punch, the low blow and the systematic opening of wounds in old scar tissue over an opponent's eye are de rigeur, as they do not say in the gyms where the manly art of modified murder is taught.

It is like basketball, where the smart operators have found a dozen ways to commit deeds inside the rules which are outside the spirit of the rules and which has been hurt grievously by coaches and players so anxious to win they'd cheerfully scuttle the game in the process.

Grantland Rice has been around sports a long time and is entitled to an opinion. He sums it up like this:

"Too many young competitors are beginning to believe the rules are a joke—along with certain football coaches. Not too many—but some . . . A world and a game without rules? That seems to be the world we are living in today."

Nevertheless, Tebbetts is right. Either he wins or gets canned. It's that simple. And that illogical. Because in a contest between sportsmen someone must win ethically and someone must lose ethically, or it is not a contest between sportsmen. It is a commercial exhibition with built-in mayhem—and then what becomes of that now-famous Supreme Court ruling that professional baseball is a sport?

Another war to solve the world's problems is suggested by the South Korean foreign minister, Pyun Yung Tai, and we hope this particular Pyun is regarded as merely the lowest form of humor.

Foreign Aid Opposition Growing

By Edward K. Nellor

GOP legislative leaders, scheduled to confer with President Eisenhower, will present a solid front in opposition to any administration plan for continued large-scale foreign aid spending.

The reason: A record summer and fall of congressional globe-trotting has led to widespread conviction in both the House and Senate that now is the time to end the era of an open American pocketbook abroad.

The feeling is bipartisan.

Sen. Mansfield following a fact-finding mission in both Europe and Asia, informed the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that huge cutbacks and consolidations are needed to eliminate "distortions of purpose and wasteful expenditures of public funds."

Senate Majority Leader Knowland along with Speaker Martin are committed to recommending that foreign aid on its historic scale should be ended.

Sen. Johnson informed the Senate that "Our allies must learn to live without huge sums from the American treasury—because these sums will not be forthcoming."

Numerous congressmen of both parties have, in a series of global newsletters to their constituents, reported that the policy of "open purse" foreign aid has reached the point of diminishing return.

These are the facts GOP leaders will be armed with when they confer with the President on the forthcoming congressional session, beginning in January.

Since 1940, according to a September 9 report from the Department of Commerce, U.S. foreign aid reached the fantastic peak of $92,100,000,000. This figure represents one-third of our total national debt

In addition, and almost forgotten, is a $11,872,596.524 unpaid balance in World War I foreign-aid debts.

Little actual cash has been repaid on World War II debts, although together with reverse grants, the total figure of repayments is $11,800,000.000. This represents in a large measure what foreign governments charge U.S. occupation forces for facilities, taxes and other charges in connection with keeping our forces in foreign countries.

Congress voted $4,500,000,000 in new foreign-aid money for fiscal 1954. It also authorized the spending of $2,100,000,000 in unobligated funds previously appropriated but not spent.

A House vote to send the legislation back to committee was defeated by a mere eight-vote margin. The victory was made possible by extensive Democrat vote support.

GOP leaders are convinced, on the basis of findings by leading opposition members in both houses, that few if any Democrats will rally to support vast foreign-aid spending in the coming session.

Vice President Nixon, fresh from his two-month tour, reported to the National Security Council on Tuesday. He stated before attending the session that he supported additional Point 4 effort.

If the administration confines its plans to an expansion of Point 4, Congress is likely to go along.

Out of all the globe-trotting reports, Point 4 is the only U.S. foreign-aid program that received praise worthy of the label.

Even Point 4, however, was criticized for wandering far afield. It was set up to employ American technicians to advise foreign governments in economic and industrial fields, not as a cash aid program.

Many congressmen learned that numerous Point 4 officials have yet to learn the program's primary mission. They hope to help in that education when the new Congress convenes.

Titles for Everyone

By Norman Lindhurst

BONN

"Come to Germany and take a title.'

At the rate German "nobility" is mushrooming, such an invitation might well become one of the lure-lines in German travel advertising.

Judging from all the titles on display, the German nobility was never more flourishing. "Herr Baron" and "herr count" have become so commonplace as to attract little notice; and "princes" and "princesses" rub elbows with commoners in such numbers that German children are beginning to lose interest in fairy tales. Small wonder that cowboy stories outsell fairy tales by a wide margin among German children.

As with most unpleasant facts of life in West Germany, the birth of this spurious aristocracy is blamed on the cold war.

Millions of refugees and expellees have arrived in West Germany since 1945 in tatters and without the semblance of identification of any kind. When asked for identification documents, most of them mumble: "The Russians . . . they were going to shoot us . . we had to flee with only the clothes on our backs."

What can one say to an explanation like that? Nothing, of course, So in time, after the refugee has been screened, he casts about for a way to earn a living in overcrowded, impoverished West Germany. Then he discovers that the people who are getting on well are those with titles.

If the refugee is bold and imaginative he adopts a title—the precise title depending only on the scope of his darng and his flair for the fictitious. Indeed, to stay alive and be at all successful a refugee has to be bold and imaginative; and as a matter of fact to become a "nobleman" in postwar Germany does not require excessive audacity. "Once you have set yourself up as "herr baron" or "herr count," who can contradict you?

Ordinarily it would be fairly simple to check up on a spurious count. One would simply go to the German nobility achives. But if the "aristocrat" comes from the Soviet zone (and most of the new German "nobility" does) this is impossible. The Soviets do not permit file-searching in their occupation zone.

Nobody knows how many bogus noblemen there are in West Germany. Police have arrested 2,000, however, and they estimate that for every "aristocrat" behind jail bars there are 50 living undetected.

There is some logic behind this grab for titles. "Herr baron" in the postwar Germany, will have infinitely greater social and business opportunities than just plain "her — ." So snobbish is the bustling new Germany that it is difficult even to get a suitable table in a first-class restaurant or a comfortable room in a hotel unless you can brandish a title.

The mushrooming of counterfeit nobility has debased the value of titles to a point where legitimate holders of a simple "von," the lowest grade of German nobility, feel justified in up-grading their title to meet the competition of the impostors.

Most of the false nobles adopt false names as well, but a few fake "aristocrats" have even been bold enough to assume the well-known names of Prussian or Bavarian families. In fact, only two years ago a fake Prince Hohenzollern managed to dupe a wealthy American heiress into marriage on the strength of his supposed title.

Swindlers have been quick to exploit the possibilities of a title. Most of the fake aristocrats arrested maintained they had adopted a false title to play a more prominent role in social, public or business life, or to marry a rich girl. "And it worked like a charm," one phony count admitted. "A title is a magic word in Germany today."

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Thoughts on a TV Romance

Milton Berle and his new wife began their honeymooning in Florida. This should officially start the season down there. Publicity agents for other vacation zones are working feverishly to come up with something just as good.

We find it intriguing to conjure up the details of a romance involving a top TV celebrity and the girl of his heart. When the proposal comes, how can a gal be sure it's not a gag? — The first time he calls to ask her folks, does an elaborate entrance have to be arranged ?

Does a famous video comedian say "I love you," as most men say it or does he have to have his writers sharpen it up?

When he asks "Will you be my wife?" does she get a chance to answer at once or isn't it the real cue line? — If she replies, "You are my dream man. I have always waited for this great moment of happiness," will this be an adequate response or a little disappointing to General Motors?

We imagine things ran something like this:

Milton — Ruth, be mine. A fellow gets awfully lonely with just his mother, brother, staff writers, directors, sponsors and millions of TV fans around him.

Ruth — I'm terribly flattered, Milton, but are you sure we could be happy? You're so busy, would I ever see much of you ?

Milton — Certainly you'd see much of me. I'm giving you a super TV set as a wedding gift. You can even come to rehearsals.

Ruth — But, Miltie a girl yearns for real home life . . . for all the little things that go with domesticity.

Milton — I've got all the things that go with domesticity — five desk phones, seven tax experts, and all the cameras I can face.

Ruth — A wife wants her man all to herself.

Milton — Come, come, my girl, be fair to Buick.

Ruth — Oh, Milton dear, could I be sure nothing and nobody could ever come between us . . . that we could be happy as just two people alone together

Milton —You're making it difficult. I'm proposing marriage, not retirement.

Ruth asks, "Could you wait for my answer" and gets the snappy retort, "No. If you're stuck just AD LIB."

Ultimately comes the wedding day with the bride facing the task of working it in somewhere despite all the rehearsals, conferences with gag writers, etc. . .

Then there's the difficulty of convincing Berle no big musical number will be needed as they enter . . . that they will both have to come into the scene together, and that the justice performing the ceremony must be allowed a bow.

Oh, the worries to be faced! . . . Will the groom insist upon topping the line, "Do you take this woman" — If he forgets the ring, will he blame it on his brother? — Will he want other girls present as guest stars? — Would she do well to get him to promise to love, cherish and refrain from reading his fan mail aloud?

What if somebody plays "My Merry Oldsmobile" during the ceremony? — And always that haunting question in her mind, "Am I all that Buick expects in a bride?"

Cupid, we think, must feel that it plays just a "bit part" when TV's greatest star gets married to a charming girl publicity agent. But who cares, so long as the bride and groom are happy? We wish Miltie and Ruth every joy.

True love conquers all, but it is tough on all the Tuesday night nephews and nieces.

"Kismet," Gotham's newest musical is one of the most superdooper productions show business has ever seen, with every one of a dozen and a half scenes exquisitely beautiful . . . Alfred Drake is right out of Arabian Nights, Doretta Morrow is wunnerful and we predict Richard Kiley, as the Caliph of Bagdad, is destined to go far.

Firms To Couple Sales Drives With More Cautious Production

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—To make 1954 a prosperous year, some leading company officials are saying today, try for a neat balance between two courses:

1. Take a stitch-in-time now.
2. Step up competition with your rivals and grab a bigger share of whatever market 1954 offers.

The stitch-in-time is the explanation a number are giving for the layoffs, production cuts and inventory whittling that has been spreading through a number of industries of late. Executives of auto, appliance and steel companies argue that by cutting back output now they are avoiding the sort of boom that could bring on a bust.

Some labor leaders have another name for it. Layoffs in the auto industry, for example, have brought union charges that far from being a forward-looking step, output slashes now are the result of past mistakes—or "reckless and irresponsible overscheduling" in the first half of 1953.

In the auto and appliance industries, where layoffs have already whittled down inventories, the emphasis is being laid on plans to push 1954 sales of new products or models, just as it will be in the auto industry.

The bigger and more diversified the company, apparently, the easier the task will be to adjust to the 1954 market.

Examples of this can be found in the auto industry where the dog fight between the big three is alarming the smaller producers, and also in the 1954 progams of the two top electrical equipment companies.

General Electric executives think that in the 1954 competitive market the company that has a national reputation can count on a bigger share of the consumer's dollar. But they aren't taking any chances. They're going to make sure by stepping up their advertising and promotion programs by around 20 per cent next year.

Westinghouse Electric officials say two of their trump cards will be: Expanded distribution facilities to get their products to the consumer; and a continuing plant expansion program which is holding down operating costs with new equipment and making it possible to step up production of such products as consumers take a shine to.

Both of the electrical giants say they are confident 1954 will be "a good year" for them. They stress the over-all steady growth of the electrical industry.

Westinghouse adds another note: The coming era of atomic power. The tomic Energy Commission has Westinghouse busy on the job of developing the first large-scale industrial power reactor to harness the atom for civilian use. Westinghouse sees this as possibly opening up a whole new field for it—a field which GE also is eyeing.

NEW STAR. Screen actress Esther Williams presents the latest star in her family of three—Susan Tenny Gage, who was born Oct. 1. It marked Susan's camera debut. The other children of Esther and her husband, Ben Gage, are Benjy, 4, and Kimmie, 3.

Italian Air Attache Upset As Gift Fails To Arrive

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Brig. Gen. Enrico Cigerza, air attache for the Italian Embassy in Washington, was here yesterday to present a bust from his government to the Dayton Art Institute in honor of the 50th anniversary of powered flight.

But the bust didn't arrive.

"I am a poor man, alone in a lot of trouble," said Cigerza. "This upsets me very, very much. I apologize in the name of the ambassador I represent."

The bust, somewhere between here and Rome, is either a likeness of the late Mario Caldrara, Wilbur Wright's first Italian pupil, or of Wilbur himself.

Rebuilds Plant in 85 Days

GM Accomplishes Industrial Miracle

By ED WINGE
Of The Detroit Free Press

DETROIT (AP)—Last August the costliest industrial fire in history destroyed the Detroit transmission division plant in Livonia—the only source of General Motors Hydra-Matic transmissions.

The fire, touched off by sparks from a welder's torch, burned down the 35-million-dollar plant and destroyed or damaged every one of the highly specialized machines capable of making Hydra-Matic parts.

Yet, on Oct. 18—68 days later—GM began assembling Hydra-Matics in production quantity at the old Riopelle transmission plant in Detroit.

And on Nov. 4—just 85 days after the fire—GM had duplicated Livonia plant at Willow Run and started quantity production of Hydra-Matics there.

Tomorrow—four months and four days after the fire—GM will be able to make transmissions at Willow Run as fast as it did at Livonia—at 4,000 a day.

Behind these epic achievements, fantastic for even such an industrial goliath as General Motors, is perhaps the most amazing comeback effort in the history of the auto industry.

Pooling talents, resources, scrambling lines of authority, GM launched an industrial miracle.

The basic recovery plan was conceived on the night of the fire by Sherrod E. Skinner, in a plane hurrying to the disaster.

As vice president in charge of GM's accessory group, Skinner was responsible for the Detroit transmission division. He was in New York when the fire broke out. Operating on information phoned him before takeoff, he wrote off the Livonia plant as a complete loss. Making certain assumptions, he sketched out the basic recovery plan.

While the flames still roared, Skinner outlined his plan at a top-level policy meeting with other GM executives.

Three basic decisions were hammered out:

1. To salvage the vital machinery from the Livonia plant and clear the site.

2. To go back to the Riopelle plant in Detroit and assemble transmissions from parts made wherever possible, getting back into limited production in the shortest time.

3. To find a new home for the Detroit transmission division and get into volume production for 1954 models by Jan. 1.

A skeleton assembly line still existed at Riopelle, but with GM's fabricating machines out of commission, the parts had to be made by outside sources.

Parts started flowing from midwestern contractors back into Detriot and at 10 a.m., Oct. 19, the first Hydra-Matic made anywhere for 68 days rolled off the assembly line at Riopelle. Another 199 followed the same day.

By Nov. 15, Riopelle was building transmissions at its old capacity rate of 1,200 a day.

Starting from scratch, GM converted the former Kaiser Motors Corp. bomber plant at Willow Run into a fabrication and assembly plant and built the first production model there in 77 days.

Working 12 hours a day, seven days a week, 40 GM engineers designed the Willow Run layout in the incredible time of 17½ days.

This included plotting the precise location of more than 4,000 machines, and making extensive revisions in the assembly line. "If the boss had come up to me the day before the fire and told me we were going to move," said P. E. Cartwright, transmission's director of standards and methods, "I would have told him I needed six to eight months to get the new plant on paper."

And duplicating Livonia at Willow Run was more difficult in many ways than designing a new plant, he added.

For example, some 370,000 square feet, or one-fourth of the floor space, had a 36-foot high ceiling, some 16 feet too high for Hydra-Matic purposes.

GM engineers had to build a network of steel girders 20 feet from the floor to carry the intricate network of utility lines and conveyor belts.

The assembly of Hydra-Matics also posed a special problem. For its size, the automatic transmission is as finely tooled as a watch.

It must be assembled in a dust-free, air-conditioned atmosphere where the temperature is a constant 74 degrees.

The only way to get these conditions in the huge, 35-acre Willow Run "barn" was to build a factory within a factory. And that's what GM engineers did.

They erected a concrete block structure 240 feet wide and 600 feet long and air-conditioned it.

Then, as a finishing touch, they put the assembly plant under 4 ounces of air pressure per square inch above normal.

This was done so that every time a door was opened, air would rush out, pushing away any dust particles that might try to sneak into the aseptic atmosphere of the assembly plant.

GM recruited a labor force from all over the country to convert Willow Run into a transmission plant and install the complicated machinery.

An average of 2,500 men have worked two 10-hour shifts since early September.

The overtime bill at Willow Run and for the salvage job at Livonia must be enough to turn a cost accountant's hair snow white.

The original target date for starting quantity production at Willow Run was Nov. 9. This was one goal Hydra-Matic missed. It beat it by five days.

LIKENS CHURCH SERVICE

Father Killed Earning Extra Christmas Money

DETROIT (AP)—A 40-year-old father of seven working at two jobs to make extra money for Christmas is dead today. The two jobs, police said, killed him.

Three of five minor traffic accidents investigated Thursday by city police were blamed on icy streets. The state highway patrol and Marion County Sheriff's office reported no accidents in the county.

A taxicab driven by Harold C. Parks, 46, of 251 Silver St. and a station wagon driven by Lorraine Sacks of 441 N. Prospect St. were involved in an accident at an alley intersection at the rear of The Star building at 6:29 p.m. yesterday. Police reported the Sacks vehicle skidded into the side of the taxi causing minor damage to the right door and fender of the taxi.

The rear end of a taxi driven by William E. Landis, 49, of 569½ N. State St. was damaged when a car driven by Gerald A. Emery, 17, of 680 Windsor St. skidded into it at Willow and Vine Sts. at 3:37 p.m. yesterday. Emery's car was also damaged slightly on the front end, police said. Both were headed west on Willow.

Landis' taxicab was also involved in another accident at 12:28 p.m. yesterday in the 200 block on N. State St. with a car driven by Kenneth R. Geyer, 27, of 215 N. State St. There was no damage to the taxicab in this accident caused when Geyer's car skidded into the rear of the taxicab. The front end of Geyer's car was damaged, police said.

Cars driven by Cicero P. Thomas, 60, of 328 Uncapher Ave., and Paul E. Barcus, 27, of near Prospect were damaged ina collision at W. Center St. and Park Blvd. at 9:44 p.m. yesterday.

A collision at W. George and N. Prospect Sts. at 8:15 a.m. yesterday caused damage to cars driven by Billy L. Rowland, 18, of 1012 Bryant St. and Chester E. Martin, 33, of Upper Sandusky.

broadcasting systems, of which there are several.

Week or Ten-Day Period

The new system becomes the official color method 30 days after publication of the announcement in the Federal Register, government bulletin. It may take a week or 10 days for publication.

Meanwhile, NBC is planning a special Christmas broadcast in color, as well as the Pasadena, Calif., Tournament of Roses parade, preceding the Rose Bowl football game. Both NBC and CBS are planning color telecasting of their regular programs on a rotating basis plus some regular shows, expanding operations gradually.

ABC reported it is not equipped for color, but will be, now that a new system has been approved. Du Mont said it planned color programs but has no schedule thus far.

NBC claimed it was first on the air with color last night, carrying a bulletin with a colored insignia at 5:59 p.m., EST, and a color telecast at 6:30. CBS claimed the first color program at 6:15 p.m.

The CBS color method, which the new system replaces, required a mechanical revolving wheel inside receivers. The new system is all electronic, without moving parts. The CBS system required extra equipment for present receivers to receive color broadcasts, and then only in black and white.

Not Widely Accepted

The CBS system never received wide acceptance. A clampdown on strategic materials during the Korean War prevented quantity manufacture of sets.

Industry officials have indicated few of the new NTSC color sets have been manufactured, and virtually all are in the hands of manufacturers, dealers and others in the industry. Dr. W. R. G. Baker, vice president of General Electric and chairman of NTSC, has said color for the millions may be two or three years away.

The FCC announcement said it has been estimated it will cost a television station up to $187,850 for all equipment needed for participating fully in color broadcasting. If a station wanted to handle network programs only, it might get by for $24,500 worth of new equipment, the FCC estimated.

First Color Program Viewed in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—A handful of persons in station WNBK yesterday witnessed the first color television program ever received here.

The program was sent out nationally by NBC-TV shortly after the Federal Communications Commission formally approved a color television system which can be received by existing black-and-white sets.

Weather

while others said business was near normal.

None of the distributors expressed the feeling there would be a shortage. All said they had enough fuel to last through the cold spell, and could meet any demands.

The low temperature reading was made just after sunrise this morning. Thursday afternoon, the mercury reached a high of 18 degrees above zero, but started to fall in the middle of the afternoon, reaching low of five degrees above zero around midnight.

Cold To Continue

Frigid weather continued this morning. At 10:30 a.m., the temperature stood at a chilly six degrees above zero. Weather forecasts call for continuation of the cold blast for another 24 hours in Ohio, although other sections of the nation are being defrosted somewhat by southwest winds.

The official weather forecast for this area calls for partly cloudy and continued cold conditions today and tonight. Tonight's low temperature is again expected to near the zero mark, with a low of five degrees above zero predicted.

For the weekend temperatures are expected to rise, but still will average 4-8 degrees below normal. The Weather Bureau said rising temperatures might bring light snow tomorrow night and Sunday and occasional snow flurries the first part of the week.

After that, more cold through Wednesday is forecast.

Cold Throughout State

Cold readings were recorded throughout the state. Dayton shared a minus 3 reading with Marion.

The cold spell brought zero to Cincinnati, 1 above to Columbus, 3 above to Akron and 5 above to Toledo and Cleveland. The Weather Bureau said it was the coldest Dec. 18 for Columbus in 69 years. The cold snapped power lines and left part of the city without electricity for about two hours.

Cold weather swept down into the South last night, sending temperatures below freezing in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Georgia. The Far West seemed to be the only section of the country not hit by the icy weather, the Associated Press reported. California temperatures were reported near normal for the season.

Rockfield, Ill. and Alexandria, Minn. were named the coldest spots in the nation as they recorded marks of seven degrees below zero.

Down South, Jacksonville, Fla. had a temperature of 31, one degree below freezing. Other southern cities below the freezing point were Atlanta, Ga., with 18, Montgomery, Ala., with 26, and Jackson, Miss., which had a low of 29. Miami, Fla. had a mark of 49 degrees.

Southwesterly winds were forecast for most of the midwest today and tomorrow. They blew over northern Minnesota yesterday, raising temperatures in that area above zero for the first time in days.

Warmer weather was the general rule in the Rocky Mountains and Far West. Rain fell in the Pacific Northwest from northern California through sections of Oregon and Washington. Some snow flurries were reported in parts of the Great Lakes region and in the northern Appalachian Mountains.

Roads in the Marion area were reported in good condition today. The state patrol said all main roads in the county were clear of snow, but warned motorists to beware of scattered icy spots on the highways.

Many motorists in the area were caught without enough anti-freeze in their cars. Although many were protected for normal cold weather, a good number of them did not have the protection needed for the below-zero temperatures.

The snow and cold brought a plea from Marion bird lovers to remember the birds by placing food out for them.

White Gift Service Set; Cherub Choir Will Sing

Traditional White Gift service of the Christmas season at Epworth Methodist Church will be held Sunday night. The program will feature a dramatic presentation by the Epworth players. A cast of 12 will give "The Empty Room in costumes of Bible times.

In preparation for the church's festive holiday activities, extensive decoration has been done. A life-size creche with appointments of the manger scene to resemble living figures has been constructed for the church lawn by a group of young people and adults. On Christmas Eve, the "living picture" will be reproduced with human and animal "actors" from 10 until 11 preceding the Christmas Eve. service.

Focal point of the entire Christmas period will be the service on the Nativity night, Christmas Eve, with "old-fashioned preaching and song meeting" to a return to an "early tradition of Methodism."

During morning worship, music by the choir will be "Behold That Star" directed by George Lane with Mrs. Lane as organist. There will be baptism of infants and reception of new members and a special sermon by the pastor Rev. Walter C. Eyster.

For the White Gift service at 7:30, the orchestra will play "Sing, O Sing, This Blessed Day" as a prelude directed by George Barnhart with Mrs. Robert Boger as pianist. H. L. Dowler, School superintendent, will preside, and the pastor will give Scripture and prayer.

The families taking part will be those of the pastor including with Rev. and Mrs. Eyster, their three sons, John, James, and Jerry, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moore and daughter, Cynthia.

Having a special place will be Ohio Wesleyan University students from other countries, visiting in Marion from Delaware for the service. Completing the group will gather at the church altar to present gifts for the Methodist Children's Home at Worthington and the Home for the Aged at Cincinnati will be representatives of the various church departments and classes. The students are Antonio Long of Peru, Samuel Karimi of Kenya East Africa, Maung Aung Khin of Burma and Kong Fatt Wong of Malaya.

Frank Gegenheimer and L.M. Yinger put up a decorative arrangement for the church entrance. In charge of the decorating for the interior of the church were Mrs. Waddell, Mrs. Hoover Brown, Mrs. Merle Hamilton, Mrs. Ben Wiant, Mrs. Howard Swink, Mrs. J. E. Oliphant, and Mrs. Harold Harmon.

in France, he was opposed by various groups, particularly the Radical Socialists. The many-times foreign minister's staunch advocacy of the European army plan also ruled out Socialist support for him, but gained him strength in quarters which want to see Western defense strengthened by German troops and the advancement of European unity.

Belbos favors the European army but his candidacy produced little excitement either for or against him in the early stages.

Laniel was the favorite of the rightist members. They hoped that if either Bidault or Delbos pulled out or lost votes, the Premier might gain strength and start a landslide.

Eisenhower

transmitting atomic information to America's allies, although he said this would not include any of the technical secrets involved in making atomic weapons.

The President said last night his first day's conference with GOP congressional leaders and committee chairmen had reaffirmed his confidence that the Republican party will continue to present a successful, sound and productive program that will serve the welfare of 160 million Americans.

The President said the conferees agreed there would be "a continuation of the substantial progress this administration already has made" in cutting the federal budget. He added:

"In fiscal 1955 (beginning next July 1) we will continue this progress by further reduction of expenditures and further reduction of new spending authority."

The first day's look by the Presidents advisers and the legislative leaders, he said, covered the proposed new defense program, foreign aid operations, absentee voting for overseas armed services personnel, housing, proposed labor law amendments, unemployment insurance benefits and the government's budget.

The over-all forecast of federal spending for the new fiscal year apparently was awaiting decisions not only on the whopping defense budget but upon outlays which may be necessary for the farm program Eisenhower was expected to discuss today.

If this program involves continuation of present crop price supports, as most lawmakers believed it would, the drain on the Treasury might be heavy.

But whatever the drain, Rep. Taber (R-NY), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, told reporters he thought that by "getting things in line" Congress could bring the Treasury's cash income and outgo into line in the next fiscal year.

This would mean that the regular budget would show a deficit of about four billions dollars, represented in Treasury receipts for government trust funds.

Hickenlooper said he thinks there is a "fair chance of balancing the budget without any tax increase.

"I think there can be some rearranging of our expenditures as a result of our experiences this year," he said.

He said he believes there will be some cut in military outlays without weakening U.S. defensive strength. However, Chairman Short (R-Mo) of the House Armed Services Committee said he doesn't expect the military budget to be ready for another week.

Joseph M. Dodge, the budget director, said as he left the White House last night that the administration has not yet arrived at any over-all budget figure for the year beginning July 1.

eight other guided missiles for various purposes.

Here are some of the missiles in use, in test or in development:

By the Air Force: the Matador, an intermediate range bombardment missile of ground-to-ground type, a tactical unit of which has been set up; the Bowmark, an experimental ground-to-air anti-aircraft missile; the Falcon, launched from a plane against another plane; the Snark, another ground-to-ground design, probably with longer range than the Matador; the Rascal, to be launched from a bomber flying outside and above the range of enemy interceptors and designed to "home in" on a target city.

By the Navy: the Regulus, for launching from submarines, surface ships or shore bases against enemy shipping, shore targets in an invasion operation or castal manufacturing centers and harbors: the Terrier and Sparrow, two antiaircraft missiles.

Greenlease

Donald Shull, said her breathing lasted longer than any person he had ever seen die in the chamber.

Some of the official witnesses had figured in the unusual federal court trial when a jury in Kansas City recommended the death sentence Nov. 19.

Hall's Attorney Present

Hall's attorney, Marshall K. Hoag of Pleasonton, Kan., an old friend of the family, was one of them.

But the only representative of little Bobby Greenlease's family present was Norbert S. O'Neill, Kansas City business associate of the child's multimillionaire father. O'Neill was one of the men who negotiated with the kidnapers and dropped a record $600,000 ransom near a bridge east of Kansas City Oct. 4.

"I came down here," O'Neill said after the execution, "to keep faith with a vow I made several weeks ago. I don't like to see people die, but these people deserved to die. I came down here to see the sentence carried out because I thought it was a just sentence."

In the last few days law enforcement officers have made strenuous efforts to find out what happened to the missing half of the ransom.

Another last-minute effort was made just before their deaths but failed.

Have Nothing To Say

"Have you anything to tell me?" U.S. Marshal William B. Tatman asked both prisoners after they were blindfolded and strapped into the death chairs.

Both shook their heads and Mrs. Head added aloud: "No."

Their last audible words before the door was sealed were: "Thanks for everything," and 'Goodby' to the guards who had watched over them in the last few days.

But they kept on talking to each other for the few seconds it took to seal the chamber.

Did they talk about the little boy they planned to kill even before they abducted him? Their few months of illicit love together? Or were they just two human souls trying to brace each other for death?

Witnesses peering through the thick glass windows of the gas tank couldn't tell.

Have No Regrets

All the witnesses knew was what prison and law enforcement officials have reported in recent days: that Hall did not regret the crime so much as he did his own stupidity in getting so drunk he was caught.

He was arrested in St. Louis Oct. 6 after police were tipped that a man with a lot of money was on a drunken spending spree. He led officers to Mrs. Heady's hideout a few hours later. And that, according to guards who have been close to her, was her bigest disappointment. They had planned a life of luxury with the $600,000 they got in their vicious plot. But today $4.40 worth of chemicals killed them.

They went to their deaths in simple prison clothing, nothing like the luxurious clothes they used to wear.

Mrs. Heady Neat

Mrs. Heady was clad in a bright green cotton dress, the standard prison garb. Her dark brown wavy hair was carefully combed and she had on a little makeup. She wore scuff-type sandals but no stockings.

Hall wore olive green twill pants and shirt, a black stripe down the side of the trousers. He had on unlaced shoes but no belt. His shirt was open at the throat.

Both were squeezed tight by the straps around their chests and Mrs. Heady complained about that. As they were led into the gas tank, she said: "I can't see a thing." Then as the straps were tightened, she told the guards, with a little chuckle "It's tight—I'm not going anywhere."

Mrs. Heady asked Hall, who was seated on her right, if he had plenty of room, but he made no audible answer.

First Woman To Die

Mrs. Heady, the first woman to die in the gas chamber since it was installed in 1938, had one other woman near her almost to the end. She was Mrs. Tatman, wife of the U.S. marshal. Mrs. Tatman stayed until her charge was strapped in the death chair. Then she went outside and did not see the actual execution.

Both inside and outside the prison, officials carried out the tightest security plans to prevent any trouble. Some convicts had expressed hatred for Hall because they thought he had hurt their chances for parole.

He was paroled from the same prison last April 24 after serving 15 months of a five-year term for robbery in Kansas City. It was while in the penitentiary for robbery that he hatched the idea of easy riches through a kidnaping.

Other convicts had reflected the attitude of citizens all over the nation, the same attitude expressed after the trial by little Bobby's father:

"It's too good for them, but it's the best the law provides."

When two hearses took the bodies out of the prison about an hour after the execution, the streets were almost empty in the near-zero cold. Victor Buescher, a Jefferson City undertaker, claimed the bodies and prepared them for burial.

Burial Set Saturday

From here, Mrs. Heady's body was to be taken to Clearmont, Mo., her girlhood home, for burial Sunday morning.

Hall's attorney insisted to the end that he did not know where Hall would be buried. His mother and father are buried in a family plot at Pleasanton, Kan.

At their home in Kansas City the Greenleases went to bed at their customary hour and did not stay up until the execution time.

Security Check Aids Newsmen With Coverage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—The very security measures set up by prison and peace officers here enabled newsmen to get a slight break on the news that the Greenlease kidnapers were apparently dead.

Within seconds after Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady were unofficially pronounced dead in Missouri's gas chamber, the news was carried on Associated Press wires.

Here's how it was done:

From over the state 30 troopers and officers of the state highway patrol moved into the prison area yesterday afternoon. The extra reinforcements were set up to prevent a possible disturbance among the 2,500 prisoners.

To further tighten and correlate security, Col. Hugh H. Wagoner, superintendent of the state highway patrol, took a portable radio to the death chamber.

Radio contact was kept with the prison yard, the deputy warden's office and a contingent of patrol officers. Through this contact troopers surrounding the prison were advised of each move taken in the execution.

Newsmen stationed themselves in patrol cars, where they heard the first reports.

When Waggoner flashed the word the kidnapers apparently were dead it took only a 50-yard sprint to telephones which were being held open for the first reports.

Hall Talkative During Last Ride

JEFFERSON CITY Mo. (AP)—C.O. Parker, driver of the car that carried Carl Austin Hall to the gas chamber today, said Hall's first comment was about the weather.

Parker said that when Hall stepped into the car, he said:

"It's colder out here than I thought it was."

The driver said Hall carried on a conversation with the other occupants of the car throughout the short trip.

"He walked right in with no hesitation. He did not appear tense or excited."

Parker, whose car was following the vehicle carrying Bonnie Brown Heady, said that she also appeared calm on the trip to the chamber.

"Mrs. Heady appeared very spry," he said.

Neighboring Cities Have Twins as Police Chiefs

LAKE GENEVA, Wis. (UP)—Twin boys brought up here also have twin jobs—they're both police chiefs.

Melvin and Marvin Swance, 31, became interested in police work through a patrolman who lived across the street from them in Lake Geneva when they were boys.

Now, Melvin is chief here and Marvin heads the force in Harvard, Ill., just across the state line.

Rowe Hopkins, Melvin's predecessor as chief, was the patrolman who inspired them.

Sound Waves Believed Future Insect Weapon

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (UP) — Sound waves may some day be used to kill insects, but this probably won't be for a long time, according to Dr. Hubert Frings, associate professor of entomology at Penn State College.

Dr. Frings said research in the field has been handicapped by lack of interest and by scarcity of equipment capable of sending out sound waves with frequencies above 20,000 cycles, the maximum capable of being picked up by the human ear

However, he said a machine has been developed in France, capable of sending out 27,000,000 cycles. The machine will enable researchers for the first time to transmit sound waves at almost any frequency they desire.

THE OLD GRIND

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP) — A safer, simpler and easier method of packing grinding wheels for shipment has been developed by the Electro Refractories & Abrasives Corp. which ships the wheels upright in an open rack. Heavy cardboard prevents friction between wheels. Previously grinding wheels were shipped lying flat on top of one another.

GOOD RECORD

EAST WINDHAM, Me. (UP) — Herbert Abbott, 73, has driven an automobile more than 500,000 miles during the last 46 years witout an accident.

Major Events Summarized in Kidnap Killing

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) —Here is a summary of events in the Greenlease kidnap-killing case:

Sept. 28—Bobby Greenlease, 6, son of multimillionaire automobile dealer Robert C. Greenlease kidnapped from the French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion in Kansas City by a woman posing as his aunt. He is driven 12 miles to a lonely spot in Kansas by his two abductors and shot to death. His body is taken to a grave, already prepared, in St. Joseph, Mo.

Oct. 4—After series of ransom demands Robert Ledterman, close friend of the Greenlease family, tosses 85-pound duffel bag containing $600,000 in $10 and $20 bills from a bridge near Kansas City. The kidnap-killers pick it up.

Oct. 5—Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, the kidnapers, drive to St. Louis, where Hall goes on a free-spending spree.

Oct. 6—Hall and Mrs. Heady are arrested by St. Louis police on a itp from a taxicab driver who picked up Hall as a passenger.

Oct. 7—Hall and Mrs. Heady admit the kidnaping and Bobby's body is unearthed in the yard of Mrs. Heady's St. Joseph home. Hall names an alleged accomplice, Thomas John Marsh, as the actual killer.

Oct. 13—They are transferred to Kansas City to face trial under the federal Lindbergh kidnaping law.

Nov. 3—Hall and Mrs. Heady pleaded guilty in federal court and are ordered to trial.

Nov. 16—The kidnapers go on trial before federal court jury whose sole task is to decide whether they shall die.

Nov. 19—The jury recommends the death sentence for both. U.S. Dist. Judge Albert L. Reeves pronounces the death penalty.

Nov. 20—The pair is taken from Kansas City to the Missouri State Prison at Jefferson City and placed in death row.

Dec. 18—Hall and Mrs. Heady are executed in the Missouri prison gas chamber. No further light is shed on approximately $300,000 of ransom money still missing.

Weapon Designed To Battle Insects

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UP.)—Kansas State College scientists have developed techniques for listening to hidden insects chewing inside kernels of wheat and other grains.

The work has practical application. For example, it is possible to judge the effectiveness of fumigants designed to kill off the insects in grain.

The college investigators have been able to detect hidden insects in all except the egg and extremely early larval stage. In the larvel and pupal stages, the insects appear to produce two distinct types of sound. One is a low frequency scraping noise, believed to be made by movement of larva and pupa within the kernels; the other is a high frequency sound, probably caused by chewing.

Kansas States's work in electronics to detect hidden grain insects has been done by R. E. Adams, graduate student in electrical engineering; Dr. J. E. Wolfe of the electical engineering department, and Drs. Max Milner and J. A. Shellenberger of the flour and feed milling departments.

Kiwanis Hears Church Officer

Men's Leader Talks On 'Hope of World'

Guest speaker at the Marion Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding was Jack A. Sutton Jr., national field director in the department of men's work of the United Christian Missionary Society, board of Christian missions and education of the Disciples of Christ.

His subject was "The Hope of the World."

Speaking of the story of the Prodigal Son, Mr. Sutton explained the three principles of the story — faith, love and forgiveness.

It is his sincere prayer, he told his audience, that the fathers of today have more love and forgiveness for their sons. Fathers today, he said, have made secondary careers of their families, with mothers having the resposibility of endeavoring to heal the breach.

"The hope of the world is within the lives of our children," Mr. Sutton said, adding that we should teach the doctrines of love, faith and forgiveness.

JACK A. SUTTON JR.
Speaks to Kiwanis Club

Mr. Sutton classifies as the greatest sin "neglect," with fathers working for the material things first. Many excuses keep fathers from church, he pointed out, but he urged each to accept his responsibility and set an example.

Closing with the thought that little boys follow in the footsteps of their fathers, he asked the question "Have you looked behind to see who is following and consider where you are leading him'?"

Introduced as new Junior Kiwanians from St. Mary High School were Jack O'Keefe and Jack McNamara.

Visiting Kiwanians included Paul Van DeVoort, Wayne Hilborn and W. Roy Diem, all of Delaware. Guests included Rev. Ashley Booth, pastor of Central Christian Church, Smith H. Witter, who will be business manager of The Marion Star after Jan. 1, and J. W. White.

Farm Bureau Insurance Employes To Get Raise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Farm Bureau insurance companies today announced a wage revision program which will add 1 to 2 million yearly to their 21 million dollar payroll.

President Murray D. Lincoln said some 5,000 employes in a 13-state operating territory will be affected.

Lincoln said by March 31, every employe will be reviewed for a possible raise on a merit basis He said the new program results from a survey began by the companies last February when the elimination of federal controls made upward revisions possible.

Mother in Los Angeles Wins but Can't Collect

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A judge pondered today the solution of Mrs. Louise Davidson's problem: how to get the $100 savings bond she says a diaper service owes her because she predicted two months in advance the exact day and hour of her baby's birth.

Mrs. Davidson, 27, told the court she has been unable to collect, that she was embarrassed because people kidded her about having the baby paid for, and that she had to hire baby sitters while trying to collect the bond.

An attorney for the diaper service said it has no record of Mrs. Davidson filling out a card in the contest and that the driver who distributed the cards last January quit and took the records with him.

The suit against the Napp Diaper Service was taken under submission.

Dilemma

By George Sokolsky

Most plane riders like to sit quietly and read or ponder, but now that some of the larger planes have a section in the tail where it is permissible to smoke a cigar or a pipe, something of the atmosphere of the club car develops and it is good. The cigar or pipe smoker usually is also a talker.

SOKOLSKY

The club car atmosphere is one of argument, drunk or sober, and sooner or later everybody gets into it with varying degrees of knowledge and wisdom.

In a country in which everybody is entitled to express his opinion, whether he has ever done an hour's work to justify having an opinion, it is possible to hop, skip and jump from this to that and the time passes pleasantly.

CURIOUSLY, there is less talk about Eisenhower than about McCarthy, less about taxes this year than about spies — and all this is pro and con.

I was traveling to and from New York and Chicago immediately after the Bermuda Conference and the President's speech, "Operation Candor," but few raised the subject either in the plane or anywhere else.

What seemed to be uppermost in most people's minds, at that moment, was what would come of the fight between Eisenhower and McCarthy, what was the Canadian game about Gouzenko, what is the truth about Fort Monmouth, why did not the FBI catch all the spies and put them in jail, is McCarthy running the president, will there be a third party, etc., etc., along these lines.

TO SAY, as Adlai Stevenson remarked in a speech, that our people have fears is an understatement. Our people are, on the whole, not only afraid; they are disgusted.

Stevenson ought to know because in his State of Illinois the disgust is so thick, it can be cut like a cheese-cake. And the disgust has nothing to do with Eisenhower or Truman, much less with Stevenson, but with both political parties, which, in the minds of too many, are guilty not only of mismanagement but of failing to disclose mismanagement.

There is a growing feeling in the land among the citizens that the politicians of both parties are in a conspiracy to cover up the mistakes made by any politician.

This lack of confidence in the leadership of both parties is what makes Joe McCarthy so interesting to so many. He is being discussed even by those who dislike his personality and the way he does things.

THESE DISCUSSIONS go further. Many businessmen cannot understand the combination of Republican and Democratic leaders who, in order to pursue a foreign policy that does not produce the results hoped for, are now promoting an international trade policy which is already being felt by a large number of American industries.

Already the coal, oil, chemical, electrical equipment, lace, costume jewelry and other industries fear that they will be put out of business, that there is already a clinical indication of unemployment, and that sooner or later, Congress will be faced by the good, old American struggle over the tariff, with, however, this anomaly that a Republican administration may be supporting the concet of free trade while the Democrats will be demanding legislation protecting particular commodities.

It is this switch in position that often arouses citizens to wonder whether either of the two major political parties stands for anything as a party.

IF BOTH PARTIES are identical in practices, those who need to or desire to express a contrary point of view will have no avenue for expression except in Left - Wing groups coordinated by the Communists or as extremists on the Right.

The two - party system often breaks down because the parties cease to have meaning and become nothing more than collections of ambitious personalities.

The greatest value of Robert A. Taft to the Republican party was that in the years when Roosevelt and Truman tried to destroy that party by pleas for what they called unity, he adhered to a set of traditional principles which men and women could support because they believed in them.

No such sharp demarcation of principle is apparent in these days and in conversations among the businessmen I meet over the country, the disappointment is being expressed in no uncertain terms: No one knows how to sit on both sides of a table at the same time.

Ohio Bell Files Request for Rate Increase

Would Hike Charges From 15 to 50 Cents Per Month, PUCO Told

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. today asked permission to boost its residential and business phone rates from 15 to 50 cents a month.

The increase, if granted, would make consumers' phone bills 27 per cent higher than they were five years ago. Ohio Bell was granted rate increases in March 1949 and September 1952. The two increases put into effect a combined rate boost of 22 per cent.

In filing an application with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission, Bell President John A. Greene said the proposed rates would increase the cost of residence service less than a cent a day and business service less than four cents daily.

The rates would afefct 178 communities and increase annual gross revenues an estimated $8,913,000. But Greene said this would produce a net of only $4,117,000 after taxes.

In Cleveland, the increase would have this effect on monthly phone rates:

Unlimited one-party residence service, hiked from $5.75 to $6, unlimited two-party residence service, $4.50 to $4.65; limited residence service, $3.25 to $3.40; and business service, from a minimum of $7.50 to $8.

In both the measured residence service and the business service, the charge for additional calls would be increased from 4¼ cents to 4¾ cents.

Greene said even with the increase, Bell's earnings still would be less than six per cent of property value.

"We are asking only for what is needed by the company to continue to expand and improve service and to cover increases in costs," he said.

With the demand for service still heavy, he said, it is necessary to keep a construction program going at a curent rate of 50 million dollars a year.

"Most of this money must come from investors, and to compete for the investor's dollar our earnings must be sufficient to pay a reasonably adequate return," Greene declared. "During the past year the company's rising costs . . . have been a matter of growing concern. This company is now earning less than five per cent."

Greene added that rates have increased an average of 22 per cent during the past 10 years, while the cost per telephone for service has risen 70 per cent.

The best preparation for the future is the present well seen to, and the last duty done.—G. Macdonald

Mediators Seek Car Strike Pact

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A CIO United Steelworkers official says a peace plan proposed by federal mediators to end a strike against Continental Can Co. "has merit and we are very hopeful."

James Robb, head of the USW committee negotiating with the firm, made the statement yesterday as talks recessed until Monday when the company is expected to give its answer. Details of the plan were not disclosed. Company officials were not available for comment.

The development came shortly after negotiations broke off between the union and American Can Co. Both sides issued statements saying a deadlock had been reached.

Cover-Ups

By Laura Hobson

The phoniest of all parental groans are those that accompany a phrase such as, 'With three kids, you can imagine what Christmas is like at our house."

HOBSON

These groans are a close second to those that issue from those same throats after any kid's birthday party — a mixture of exhaustion, pride in the number of years already accumulated and a love that only other parents can really fathom.

Both kinds are cover - ups for feelings that run pretty deep, but since birthdays are spread all through the year while Christmas comes to all parents simultaneously, this is the only time you can study the cover-up groan en masse.

—:—

EVERY STORE in the nation is a good laboratory right now for this scientific - type study; the toy and sporting goods departments resound with adult grumbles about "going broke for those kids" and "they'll be spoiled with so many presents," and the like.

But the choosing and wrapping and carrying home goes right ahead just the same.

The first package hidden away in a locked closet starts a time of happy mystery and promise that seems to tingle through every room and everybody in it

For the kids, perhaps, it's a self-centered tingle of what-am-I-going to get? Which is part of childhood, and thus natural and good.

—:—

FOR PARENTS, though, the increasing pleasure of these pre-Christmas plans and lists and shopping expeditions is the highest act of imagination and understanding.

It's identification; it's an interior knowing how a child is going to feel on Christmas morning when he or she opens this box with this bright bow and sees this particular gift.

And for parents, the succession of Christmases makes a kind of calendar just as the succession of birthday parties does.

Think back over the years and remember the parade of gifts you gave your own boys and girls—how they shifted from the first pull - toys and blocks and teddy bears, to the first dolls and "learner's skates" and games, to the small sleds and tricycles to the first electric trains and picture books and baseball bats and two-gun holsters.

THEN, SUDDENLY, your girls want things to wear instead of dolls and your boys want stamp albums and footballs instead of soldiers.

Another Christmas or two and you're shopping for the first "formal" for your daughter and the first bow-tie for your son.

One more Christmas and some of the gifts are large, square, paper - thin packages that are the dance records both of them suddenly hunger for, and, if you're lucky, some others are smaller inch-thick oblongs, that are the good books they've begun to gobble up.

—:—

THEY GROW, and Christmas shopping for them changes. Somewhere along the line, they stop asking an adult to go along to the stores while they choose the present they're going to give dad or mom or Uncle Harry or Aunt Jenny or grandpa and grandma—and then the greatest change of all is by way of taking place.

For then the kids themselves start making the great discovery that puts living flesh and pulsing blood into the phrase they've heard all their lives.

The discovery that it really is more blessed to give.

Cantata Will Feature Nevada Church Service

A special sermon Sunday morning and cantata by the Senior Choir Sunday night will mark Christmas Sunday at both services of the Nevada Methodist Church on Sunday. In the morning, the sermon will be "Why the Angels Sing. Final cantata rehearsal will be at 2 p.m. Miss Mary Lou Fetters, music instructor at Nevada High School, will direct the production, "Chimes of the Holy Night" by Fred Holton, at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Grace Miller is organist, and solos will be by Mrs. Carol Frost, Nevin Kinsley, Miss Gloria Kinsley, Mrs. Dorothy Kinsley, Miss Imogene Kuenzli, Rev. Frank McMillen, and Eddie Whitmeyer. The church official board will meet Monday night. Each day at 6 p.m. through Dec. 31, "The Angelus" chimes will be played "to remind us to keep Christ in Christmas," the pastor announced.

Court Cases Assigned For Bucyrus Sessions

BUCYRUS — Crawford County Common Pleas Judge John C. Carroll announced here today the assignment of 17 jury cases and two chancery actions for the January term of court, which begins Jan. 5 and ends in April.

The judge also announced that four days have been set aside for the regular meeting of the grand jury, which is scheduled to meet Feb. 23-26.

Three Drivers Arrested

Three motorists were arrested for traffic violations by state patrolmen from the Marion post Thursday.

William R. Edwards, 51, of Birmingham, Mich. was fined $15 and costs in Municipal Court. He was arrested on U. S. Route 23 and charged with pasing on a yellow line.

Earl Whitt, 19, of Hurley, Va., posted bond for his appearance in Municipal Court today on the same charge.

A 16-year-old Marion County jjuvenile was cited to appear at a later date in the court of Juvenile Judge Edward Ruzzo. He was charged with excessive speed.

Prepaid Sales Tax Receipts Increase Here

Earl Christmas spending in Marion County is reflected in a report of sales tax collections for the week ending Dec. 5 released by Treasurer of State Roger W. Tracy.

Prepaid tax receipts of $32,127 are listed for the week, while for the corresponding week a year ago receipts were $26,395.

On a statewide basis, prepaid sales tax receipts reported for the week ending Dec. 5, 1953 were $4,760,516, the biggest week's total reported this fiscal year. The figure for the same week last year was $4,170,889. The difference between the two figures shows a gain of $589,627.

The grand total cumulative receipts on Dec. 5 reached $83,925,857 as against $75,374.914 for the corresponding 23-week period last year.

Receipts of surrounding counties for the week ending Dec. 5 (with 1952 figures in parentheses) are as follows:

Crawford, $19,005 (16,659); Delaware, $6,788 ($7,840); Hardin, $11,173 ($9,185); Morrow, $3,103 ($3,634); Union, $6,649 ($6,707); and Wyandot, $6,565. ($6,020).

Students Will Present Program in Caledonia

Something new in vesper services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the new auditorium of the Caledonia School. The service will be presented by the musical organizations of the high school under the supervision of Mrs. Eleanor Showers, supervisor of music for the school.

The High School Chorus will sing "Song of Christmas" by Fred Waring with the following soloists: Beveral Harper, Cherita Underwood, Paul Layman, Rebecca Scheiffler, Frank McDonald. The chorus will have piano and organ accompaniment.

Instrumental numbers will also be rendered by several high school pupils. C. D. Pilkington, superintendent of schools, will have a part in the program.

APPEAL PIKE DECISION

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Residents of Williams County have appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court on land appropriation by the Ohio Turnpike Commission. The petitioners attacked the commision's actions in taking over land for the 241-mile toll turnpike across northern Ohio. They are appealing from Williams County court decisions which said they could file pleadings in such suits but could only bring up the issue of compensation.

Erie Adds Extra Mail Trains for Annual Yule Rush

CLEELAND—Santa Claus may arrive by space ship this year, but he'll continue to use railroads for carrying his bags of gifts and greetings, Milton G. McInnes, Erie Railroad vice president for operations, said today.

Santa's railroad helpers at the various Erie stations are expecting to handle a greater load between now and Christmas than in prpevious years, said McInnes. Last year, the average number of mail bags handled on the Erie in December averaged 45,500 per day compared with 32,800 per day in the other 11 months.

In order to handle the extra load, the Erie is operating two exclusive mail and express trains this month along with adding an average of two extra mail and express cars to the regular trains between New York and Chicago.

Despite the loads carried by other forms of transportation, the railroads will handle more than 90 per cent of the package and letter mail from city to city this month as well as the rest of the year. The Postoffice Department has estimated that the nation's railroads will carry approximately six billion letters and packages during the pre-Christmas rush.

Eagles Auxiliary Will Furnish Room In Marion Hospital

The Auxiliary to Buckeye Aerie No. 337, Eagles lodge, at a recent meeting, voted to furnish a room in the new hospital and also to contribute $50 to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund. All boxed Christmas cards not sold before the meeting were given to the Marion Training School to be distributed to the boys for their personal use.

Plans were made to assist the Aerie with its annual Christmas party for children. Entertainment will be in charge of Mrs. William A. Stout and Mrs. Dwight Douglas. Plans were completed to fill Christmas baskets for needy families. A Christmas party with a pot-luck dinner and gift exchange was planned for the next meeting.

Prizes during the social hour were won by Mrs. Gladys Jones, Mrs. Mary Helen Kennard, Mrs. Mary Jane Rhoad and Mrs. Mary Lou Kirk.

STUDY NEARING FINISH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Highway Construction Council says it hopes to finish its study of highway improvement projects recommended for 1954 next week. It has until the end of the month to complete its survey and act on recommendations for improvements costing 118 million dollars.

Waldo School Musicians To Give Program

Annual Christmas program by the Waldo High School vocal and instrumental departments will be presented Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the school auditorium. Included in the program will be Christmas music by the high school band, the mixed chorus, the boys' glee club and the girls' glee club.

The band of 40 members will make its first appearance in new uniforms at the concert. Purchasing of the new uniforms was made possible through contributions by various people of the community and also projects sponsored by the Parents Music Association.

Mrs. Robert Rice directs the musical groups and Marilyn Neville is accompanist.

The band will open the program with a prelude playing "Jingle Bells Rhapsody," Pierpont, and "Christmas Greetings," Walters. Rev. W. F. Kissell, pastor of the Waldo Evangelical and Reformed Church, will give the invocation, the audience will join to sing "O Come, All Ye Faithful," and the Christmas scripture will be read by Rev. Robert Fichter, pastor of the Waldo Methodist Church.

Numbers by the various groups will include: "O Holy Night," Adam, the band; "Song of Bethlehem," Bampton, mixed chorus; "We Three Kings of Orient Are," Hopkins, the band; "Christmas Lullaby," Mozart, the girls' glee club; "Lo, How A Rose E're Blooming," the boys' glee club; "Adesta Fideles," the band; "Ring Christmas Bells," Leontovich, "For Unto Us A Child Is Born" from "The Messiah," Handel, and "The Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah," Handel, the mixed chorus.

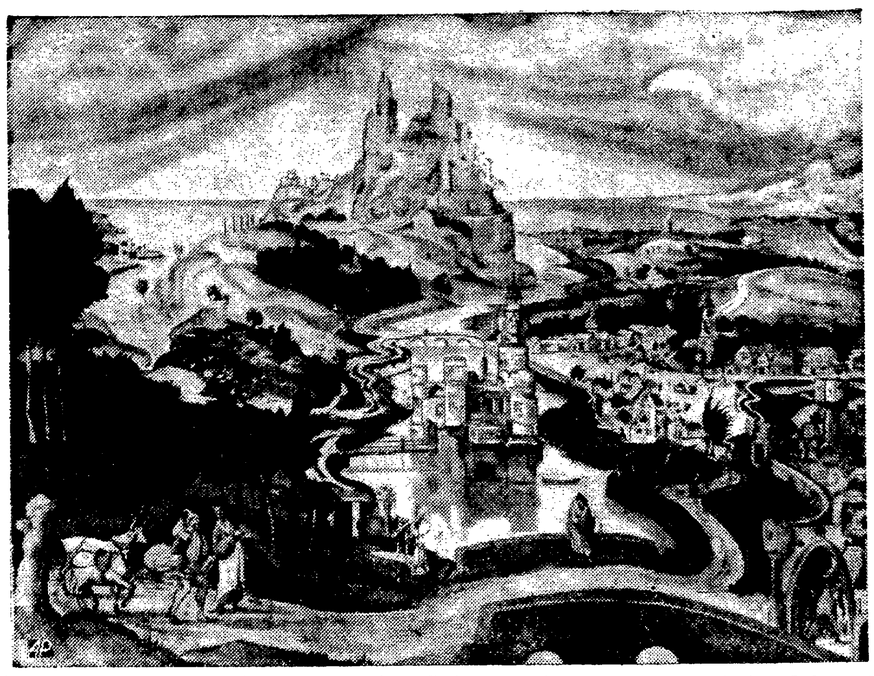
Christmas Story—No. 2

The Arrival in Bethlehem



AND SO IT WAS—And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:) To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.—Luke 2:4-6.

(By Cornelius Massys — Selected by Department of Worship and the Arts, National Council of Churches, courtesy the Metropolitan Museum of Art.)

Michigan Girl Steals $152 in Christmas Rush

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—She's in her early 20s. She wears a white sweater and a green corduroy skirt. And police of two cities are looking for her.

Here's why:

She walked into two Kalamazoo stores and one in Grand Rapids. She boldly posed as a new employe among many hired for the Christmas rush. Then she tapped the cash till and departed. So far she's at least $152 ahead.

In Grand Rapids she walked up to a cash register, opened it and took $87, explaining to a trusting temporary employe: "The boss sent me to get the money."

Deficit of $170 Left At End of Football Season at Bucyrus

BUCYRUS — Bucyrus High School's athletic fund showed a net loss of $170 for the football season which was concluded last month, Ned F. Hoover, fund treasurer, announced today.

Mr. Hoover said the fund showed a deficit because player equipment purchased this school year for the football squad cost $2,000. The unusually large amount was expended because 60 boys, the largest number in recent years, turned out for the squad last September.

Total income amounted to $3,819 while expenditures totaled $3,989. Major income items were $2,471 from single game admissions and $848 in season ticket sales. Other revenue was received from insurance and one game guarantee.

The team, which won only three out of nine games, played only four home game. A five game home schedule is set for next fall. Mr. Hoover said the fund's present balance is about $2,300.

HOLIDAY TOLL ESTIMATED

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio State Safety Council estimates 40 persons will be killed in Ohio over the three-day Christmas weekend, 36 in traffic accidents. Last year, when the holiday period extended four days—Thursday through Sunday, 48 persons met death.

95 Army Prisoners Get Freedom for Christmas

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—A Christmas clemency order today brought the release of 95 prisoners from the U. S. Army stockade in Pusan.

Maj. Gen. William S. Lawton, commander of the Korean Communications Zone, said the 95 represented almost a fourth of all the prisoners held here in the Army's only stockade in Korea.

The order affected prisoners who would have completed their sentences by Jan. 15 or would have been eligible for clemency by that date.

Son Admits He Put Cyanide in Parents' Drink

Young N.Y. Chemist Breaks Down, Double Murder Is Confessed

NEW YORK (AP)—A 20-year-old chemist has confessed the cyanide cocktail murders of his well-to-do parents and says he killed them because his mother had accused him of sexual abnormality for as long as he can remember.

But a male friend says he and the lazy, luxury-loving son hatched the weird toast-of-death plot to get their hands on $150,000.

Bronx Dist. Atty. George B. De Luca announced last night that Harlow Fraden, poetry-loving college graduate, admitted he had treated his parents to chamagne cocktails spiked with potassium cyanide.

Fraden allegedly hurried the job with more poison during the death agony of his parents—Dr. William Fraden, 50, a physician, and his wife Shirley, 46, a schoolteacher.

Fraden's mother had chided him as abnormal, even "before he knew anything about sex," De Luca said in announcing the son had confessed after many hours of questioning.

"This he strongly resented," the prosecutor said. "Fraden further stated that he did not kill his parents for personal gain, because his parents gave him all the money he wanted."

Fraden said he bore no animosity toward his father.

Fraden had been confronted with the confession of his friend, Dennis Wepman, 20, an unemployed freelance writer, who had related that he and Fraden plotted the crime for money.

CRIME PARTNER. Dennis Wepman (above), an unemployed writer, admitted to New York police that he took part in an alleged murder-for-money plot in which a young chemist reportedly poisoned his parents to get their $150,000 wealth. The chemist-son, Harlow Fraden, later confessed he spiked his parents' champagne cocktails with potassium cyanide.

De Luca said Fraden finally confessed he murdered his parents in the manner that Wepman had described; he told his parents falsely that he finally had gotten a job, and gave them poisoned champagne cocktails to join him in a toast to the end of his loafing.

The deaths of the parents had been listed tentatively for four months as a double suicide or murder and suicide until the ease cracked open Wednesday through a pretty girl friend of Wepman. He confided to her that he was involved in the plot, and she reported to police.

The Bronx County grand jury will be asked today to vote indictments against Fraden and Wepman, both charged with homicide and locked up in the psychiatric division of Bellevue Hospital.

Bronx authorities said both Fraden and Wepman denied being homosexual.

As Fraden buried his nose in a book of poetry he carried during the police routine, Asst. Dist. Atty. George Tilzer said:

"That book is his whole life. He said it was one of the things his mother resented . . . 'Get out of the apartment and act like a boy,' he said she would tell him when she saw him reading the book or other books of poetry."

Fraden, an only son, collected an estimated $150,000—including a $20,000 insurance policy—after his parents death and quickly squandered about $50,000 of it. He had a $200-a-month room at the fashionable St. Moritz Hotel.

Wepman—who said that Fraden's parental allowance had been cut and that the roommates were low in funds before the murders—told questioners:

"I went along with the (murder) idea. I expected to get my commensurate share of the inheritance but I only got $120 in small amounts."

Candidacy Announced

Bender Is First To Seek GOP Senate Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. George H. Bender, self-styled "100 per cent" supporter of President Eisenhower, is off and running for the Republican senatorial nomination in Ohio's primary next May.

Bender, long a GOP leader in the Cleveland area and now serving his seventh term in the House, formally announced his candidacy yesterday.

He is the first Republican in the field, seeking the seat now held by Sen. Burke (D-Ohio), who was appointed to the Senate by Gov. Frank J. Lausche after the death of Sen. Robert A. Taft

Ohio voters next fall will choose the candidate they want to serve out the remaining two years of Taft's six-year term.

Bender told newsmen he knows of "no serious opposition" to his bid for the GOP nomination, Burke has announced he will seek the Democratic nomination and he, too, has said he sees no opposition in his party.

Bender discussed his candidacy Wednesday with Ray Bliss, Ohio Republican chairman, with whom he has differed openly on occasion. Bender described Bliss' attitude as noncommittel.

However, Bender said Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, another Clevelander, is definitely in his corner and he added that he also feels he has the support of Sen. Bricker, Ohio's senior senator.

Bender, who was a steadfast supporter of the late Sen. Taft's unsuccessful campaigns for the GOP presidential nomination, said he has had "nothing but encouragement" from the White House, but he made it clear he had not talked over his candidacy with President Eisenhower himself.

Bender described himself as "one of 17 Republican congressmen in the House this year who voted 100 per cent on every test for the Eisenhower administration."

Wheeler Declares Reelection Plans

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD — Charles O. Wheeler has been announced as a candidate for re-election to the office of representative from Morrow County to the Ohio General Assembly in the spring primary. Wheeler is now serving his second term.

One of the laws he sponsored, known as the Wheeler Health Levy Law, makes possible a county or district levy by the people to provide for a health department. In the fall of 1951 directly after its passage it was used in two counties, Morrow and Paulding. In the 1953 fall election it was used in 25 counties. A second law authored and sponsored by him at the request of the Morrow County's auditor, eliminates duplication of work between the courthouse and the county hospital office.

Probably his most important bill of both sessions was the one in the last session known as the "Wheeler Highway Bill" which allocated about $12,000,000 of highway revenue money back to counties, townships and municipalities for use on secondary county and village roads. This bill was opposed by the highway department and vetoed by the governor but was passed over his veto.

Man Sentenced to Jail, Fined $100 in City Court

Charles Henry Thacker of 553 N. Main St. was sentenced to five days in the Marion County jail when he pleaded guilty in Municipal Court this morning to a charge of drunken driving.

Arrested by city police Dec. 7 on S. Prospect St., Thacker later entered a plea of not guilty and was released on a $150 bond for his appearance today.

In addition to the jail term he was fined $100 and costs and his driver's license was suspended for three years.

Nation's Corn Crop Valued at $4½ Billion

Tops Near-Record Year in Agriculture; Cotton Ranks Second

WASHINGTON (AP)—A corn crop valued at more than 4½ billion dollars topped a list of this year's near-record crops reported yesterday by the Agriculture Department.

Cotton ranked second in value with a crop listed as worth just over three billion dollars

Well over the two billion dollar mark were wheat and hay. Tobacco and commercial vegetables were valued at more than one billion dollars each.

The crop values were obtained by multiplying the estimated 1953 production by the estimated average prices received by farmers during the year.

The actual cash income to farmers as well below this "value of production" for such crops as corn and other grains fed or to be fed to livestock on the farms.

The Federal Crop Reporting Board reported this year's harvest, despite widespread drought, just about equalled that of 1952, which was the second largest in history.

The bumper yields were attributed to record and above average harvests per acre.

The crop board said farmers received an average of $1.45 a bushel for corn this year compared with $1.12 last year.

This year's wheat crop averaged $2.01 a bushel and the 1913 hay crop averaged $22 a ton.

Dmitri Shostakovich Writes 10th Symphony

LONDON (AP) — Dmitri Shostakovich topped Beethoven last night —in quantity if not in quality. The Russian Composer's 10th symphony got its first performance in Moscow. Beethoven wrote only nine.

Announcing the premiere, Moscow radio said the symphony was played by the Leningrad Philharmonic Orchestra, which also introduced the composer's other nine.

Douglas To Run Again

CHICAGO (AP)—U. S. Sen. Paul A. Douglas, 61, Chicago Democrat, announced yesterday he will be a candidate for re-election to a second six-year term in 1954.

Loaded School Bus, Car Collide Near Waverly

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP)—A loaded school bus and a passenger car crashed here today. One occupant of the car was reported injured seriously. None of the 20 children aboard the bus was reported hurt.

Injured when the car upset was Mrs. Virginia M·ynerd, 27, of Wayland, Ky. Her husband, Thomas, 22, driver of the car, a daughter, Norma, 8, and another passenger, Harlan Evans of Cleveland also were injured.

State Highway Patrolmen said the Maynerd car failed to stop at a red light.

Wright Memorial Museum Will Be Built at Kitty Hawk

KITTY HAWK, N. C. (AP)—A half million dollar museum to tell visitors the dramatic story of the Wright brothers and their creation of the first airplane was envisaged yesterday as an elaborate four-day celebration of aviation's golden anniversary ended.

Conrad Wirth, director of the National Park Service, announced funds totaling $107,000 had been donated by two private foundations and the State of North Carolina to acquire additional land at the Wright Memorial, scene of the first flight.

With the money for the additional land raised, Wirth said the park service is ready to go forward with a campaign to raise funds for the museum.

He said he hoped the aircraft industry and "friends of aviation" would make donations for erection of a "simple but complete museum at the scene of the first flight so people can see what the Wright brothers went through to accomplish what they did."

Snider Tops NL Slugging Chase

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Brooklyn's Duke Snider is the official winner of the National League's slugging championship, edging Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee's slugging third baseman, by two-tenths of a percentage point.

Snider, 27-year-old outfielder, slugged for an average of .6271 to .6269 for Mathews, according to official 1953 statistics released today by the National League Service Bureau.

The Duke put together 370 total bases in 590 at bats, including 38 doubles, 4 triples and 42 homers. Mathews, with 363 total bases in 579 trips, had 31 doubles, 8 three-baggers and 47 home runs (the most in the league).

Averages compiled by The Associated Press and released last October also listed Snider as the NL's slugging leader with .6271 and Mathews as the runner-up at .6269.

Roy Campanella of Brooklyn finished third at .610. The burly catcher, winner of the league's most valuable player award, drove out 317 total bases in 519 at bats. His extra-base output included 26 doubles, 3 triples and 42 homers.

Stan Musial of the Cardinals, despite a fourth-place .609 finish, set a league record by compiling at least 300 total bases for the ninth year. He had 361, numbering 53 doubles, 9 triples and 30 home runs among his 200 hits.

League batting champion Carl Furillo was fifth with a .580 mark followed by Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati with .570, Gil Hodges of Brooklyn, .550; Monte Irvin of the New York Giants, .541; Gus Bell of Cincinnati, .525 and Ralph Kiner, who played with Pittsburgh and Chicago, .512.

Slugging averages are computed by dividing the total bases on all hits by the number of times at bat.

Landlord in Cleveland Is Convicted of Murder

CLEVELAND (AP) — Alfred Tate, an east side landlord, charged with killing a tenant and injuring the tenant's wife and unborn child, was convicted Wednesday of second degree murder.

A Common Pleas Court jury found Tate, 58, guilty in shooting Frederick Brown, who died Sept. 15, about three weeks after the incident.

The prosecution charged Tate fired at Brown and Mrs. Estelle Brown, 17. Their son, Frederick Jr., was born the next day with a shattered arm and leg.

Tate's attorneys contended he fired in self defense after he asked the tenants to move.

Only about 48 per cent of the residents of Paris, France, were born in Paris.

SANTA and the FLYING PUP

By LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

AP Newsfeatures

Santa made a magic pill for Willie and the dreamlins to take to the Dreamlin queen held by the Gremlins. If the queen would swallow the pill she would change for 10 minutes into a puff of smoke and be able to escape. Willie and the Dreamlins traveled to a giant castle where the queen was a prisoner.

CHAPTER 14

While Willie and the Dreamlins went in rescue of the Dreamlin queen, little Henrietta waited and waited for her puppy to come.

It was almost Christmas and all the town was filled with merry-makers. But the spirit of Christmas did not come to Henrietta's home. The father had taken back the fine champion dog he had hoped would make Henrietta forget her lost puppy. Now there was nothing in the home except poverty and work.

One day Henrietta passed a store. There was a Santa Claus in the store window. Children lined up to tell Santa their wishes for Christmas.

"I will do that, too," said Henrietta. "It doesn't cost anything."

She went in and told Santa that she didn't want anything at all Christmas except for her puppy to come home.

THE STORE Santa said he did not think he could do anything about that. Henrietta looked sad so he said that perhaps if she would write a letter to the real Santa Claus something might come of it. Then she ran all the way home. "Father! I am going to write Santa Claus to bring me my puppy for Christmas.

"Child, there is no Santa Claus," said the father. "And even if there were he could not do anything about your lost puppy."

But Henrietta still believed there was a Santa and he would help her. She wrote a letter. She wrote, "Dear Santa. I have never asked for anything before but this year I would like my little lost puppy for Christmas."

She did not mail the letter because she didn't know how to address it. She thought she would just save it until Christmas eve and then if Santa came he would see him.

MEANTIME, Willie marched on the Gremlin castle. Mr. Very Little had let Willie smell a handkerchief of the lost queen so that he might track her. Now Willie hurried forward. He held his head high to show how brave he was. Then he realized that he could never catch the scent of the queen with his nose way up in the air. So he lowered his head and sniffed busily at the ground.

Right away he caught the scent. But it was confusing. He darted off first one way and then another. He wagged his tail furiously and forgot about Mr. Not Much and Mr. Very Little who ran breathlessly along beside him.

Before they knew it they were inside the castle. It was cold and dark in there. Every sound they made brought back echoes.

"H-hurry! P-please hurry!" shivered Mr. Not Much.

Willie sprang forward in the dark. "I have her!" he cried triumphantly. "Shes right here! It's exactly the same smell as there was on her handkerchief."

AGang of Gremlins Carrying Torches Burst Into the Room.

Oh he was happy to think he had done such a great deed for Santa! He leaned over and licked the queen.

"Stop it! You're licking me!" shrieked Mr. Very Little.

—:—

MR. NOT MUCH lit a match. In the light Willie found that he had tracked down Mr. Very Little instead of the queen!

"But the scent is the one you gave me!" insisted Willie.

"Mercy me!" cried Mr. Very Little. "I gave you my own handkerchief instead of the queen's." He gave Willie a different handkerchief. Willie sniffed it thoughtfully.

"I do not think I have run across a track that smells like that," he said.

"Good!" said Mr. Not Much with relief. "The queen is not in the castle. Let's get out of here."

But even as he spoke a door at the end of the corridor flew open and a gang of Gremlins carrying torches burst into the room.

"Now we are lost," whimpered Mr. Not Much.

"Nothing can save us," moaned Mr. Very Little.

As for Willie—he was too frightened to say anything at all.

Barring Gallery Regulars Fails To Save British Play

LONDON (AP)—A frace called "13 for Dinner" opened last night with all gallery regulars barred by the producer, who denounced them as "play-wreckers." The evening was a disaster.

Extra cops had to rush 300 members of the Gallery First Nighters club who stood in the lobby and booed ticket holders.

The husband of the play's comedienne punched a playgoer on the nose for ragging his wife's performance. Hubby was threatened with a date in police court.

A character on the stage said "I think I am the most bored man in town tonight" and a character in the audience shot back: 'Oh, no, you're NOT."

Upstairs 150 British army, navy and air force men—let in free to pack the gallery—sat through the performance with "the dogged sort of discipline that wins wars," as a reviewer later put it.

London press reviewers gave the offering the severest trouncing of the season.

Producer Emile Littler announced yesterday he was packing the gallery with invited servicemen because of "organized booing expeditions" at some of his other shows, including "Bruno and Sydney" which opened Sept. at the Phoenix Theater and closed three nights later.

Ham Makes Easy Meal for Christmas

Leftovers May Be Used Cold With Salad or In Sandwiches

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Your Christmas dinner will be easy to prepare if you choose a fully cooked ham for your holiday meat. All you have to do is to place it, fat side up, on a rack in an open pan in a slow (325 F) oven. We beg you not to add any water to the pan. Ham should bake, not steam!

You'll need to allow two hours heating time for an 8 to 10 pound ham, 2 to 2½ hours for a ham of 10 to 12 pounds, and 2½ to 3 hours for one weighing 12 to 15 pounds.

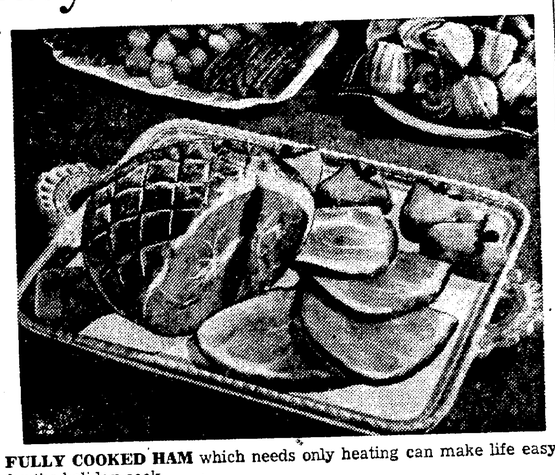
Make the vegetable accompaniments to your ham easy do, too. Buttered onions and green beans taste good together and look pretty on the same platter; use canned or home-cooked onions, and canned, frozen or fresh snap beans.

For a food-fun touch, mash and season sweet potatoes and pat into small buttered bell-shaped pans; bake along with the ham for 30 to 40 minutes, then unmold with the help of a small spatula or knife. Garnish with a cranberry "clapper" and an edge of parsley.

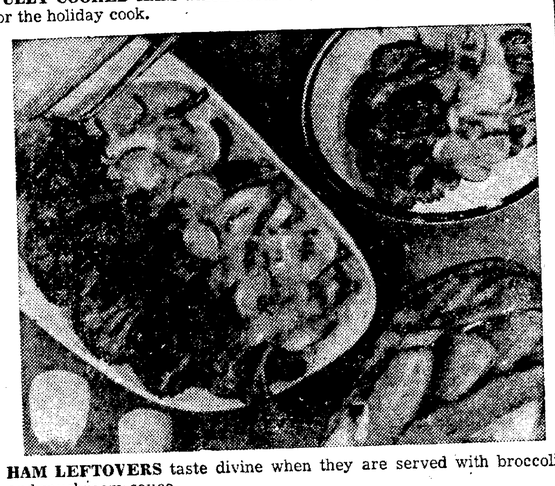
Some of the leftover ham probably will be served cold with a salad; some will go into sandwiches. The rest will make a delicious hot dish if you treat it this way:

HAM DIVINE

Ingredients: 1 bunch broccoli, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup milk, one 3-ounce can sliced broiled mushrooms, 4 ounces diced process cheddar cheese, ½ pound sliced cooked ham.



FULLY COOKED HAM which needs only heating can make life easy for the holiday cook.



HAM LEFTOVERS taste divine when they are served with broccoli and mushroom sauce.

Method: Trim broccoli, cut into serving-size lengths and cook in a small amount of boiling salted water in a skillet until just tender. Meanwhile melt butter; blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk and mushrooms, including liquid in mushroom can. Bring to boil over moderately low heat, stirring constantly. Add cheese and continue to stir until cheese is melted. Remove from heat. Arrange ham o heat-proof serving platter; run under broiler for a few minutes to heat thoroughly. Drain broccoli lightly and arrange over ham. Pour cheese sauce over broccoli stems; serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Airline Carries Christmas Mail

Lake Central Takes Part in Experiment

The Postoffice Department has authorized Lake Central Airlines to carry first-class mail, newspapers, special delivery parcel post and other classes of mail to and from Marion during the Christmas season, it was announced today.

The setup is an experiment to expedite the holiday mail rush, J. W. E. Humphrey, Lake Central sales manager, said in making the announcement.

"If successful this experiment in mail carriage could result in permanent carriage of all mail by local service airlines," Humphrey said.

"This would transfer another phase of business from government operations to private industry and it would result in reduction of subsidy payments paid by local tax payers to local service carriers," he added.

According to Humphrey, these subsidy payments total between an estimated 10 and 12 million dollars per annum.

Adoption of the experiment on a permanent basis would also provide Marion with more expedient mail service, he added.

The experiment began yesterday and will continue to Dec. 24 with possible extension to Jan. 11 if successful, Humphrey said.

Hazen Names Assistant Judge

John Bartram Chosen To Succeed Mitchell

Appointment of a new assistant Marion Municipal Court Judge for 1954 was announced today by Judge W. Dexter Hazen.

John Bartram of the law firm of Bartram and Bartram will begin his duties as assistant judge on January 2. He will succeed the present assistant judge, Edwin L. Mitchell of the firm of Strelitz, Halberstein, and Mitchell.

It is Judge Hazen's policy to appoint a new assistant judge each year. This is to provide as many Marion attorneys as possible an opportunity to serve in the position of judge, he said.

Mr. Bartram is a native of Marion and is married to the former Elizabeth Carl. They have two children, Constance, a junior at Harding High School, and John Carl, a second grader at Vernon School. The family resides at 423 Forest St.

He has practiced law in Marion for some 20 years and obtained his law degree at Western Reserve University in Cleveland. He did his undergraduate work at Ohio Wesleyan University where he received his bachelor of arts degree.

School Children Scare Sled Dogs Hauling Santa

SAN PEDRO, Calif (AP)—Six huskies hauled Santa Claus and his gift-laden sleigh to the Chadwick School yesterday. A horde of children ran out the door to greet him.

The valiant sled dogs took one look at the scrambling youngsters and bolted, spilling Santa and his gifts.

Not until the kids were quieted would the huskies tow Santa to them again.

After the Revolutionary War, the first nation to recognize the new United States was Holland which provided a three million guilder loan.

Bible Words to Live by

LUKE 2:11 "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

I love this verse because it is the answer to the age-old cry of the human race, "Show us the Father!"

What a mighty day, that birthday of Jesus! All the hopes and fears of all the years found answer when God pointed his star-studded finger at a manger in Bethlehem where his Son was born. All the yearning to see God as he really is, all the anxiety about his true character, all the desire of the godly through the ages to see God face to face, yea, these longings of all time were more than satisfied when Jesus Christ was born.

What was God like? How does he look, love, dream and work? Would he understand sin, sorrow, sickness, suffering, discouragement, distrust, doubt, death? Is the Father easy to approach, sure to care, just and holy yet full of mercy and pity for human sin? When the Babe of Bethlehem was born, we knew!

Dear God, Father of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, Help us this moment to take a loving and lingering look at Jesus Christ, that we might see thy glory. In His Name we ask it. Amen.

Dr. Harold G. Sanders
First Baptist Church
Tallahassee, Fla.

Bill Dating From 1917 Finally Paid at Fremont

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—Clair Zimmerman, a hardware store operator, has finally received payment on a $5 store bill he sent out in 1917—and with $5 interest.

A woman who now lives in Burbank, Ohio, sent the $10 in a letter yesterday. She said the bill had been mislaid while the family moved from Fremont to Oklahoma and then back to Ohio.

Zimmerman did not identify her.

UTILITY TAX TAKE UP

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy says 26,956,715 in taxes will be collected this year from Ohio utilities. The amount will surpass by more than two million dollars utilities tax collections in 1952.

Dean Arrives In Washington

Official Report on Korea Talks Readied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, expressing a personal view that Korea will have peace, readied an official report today on his so-far fruitless negotiations for a Korean peace conference.

Dean came back from Panmunjom last night. He had walked out of the conference, called to set a time and place for a peace pact meeting, after protesting Communist charges that the United States was guilty of "perfidy."

Alighting at the icy, windswept airport, Dean told newsmen:

"Based upon what I observed and as a personal opinion, I am quite sure hostilities won't be renewed."

He declined to go into details prior to his report to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

Railway Wage Dispute Settled

200,000 To Get Pay Hike Under New Pact

CHICAGO (AP) — A wage dispute between the nation's railroads and a rail union was settled yesterday with an agreement providing for a pay raise for some 200,000 workers.

Under the agreement between the carriers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, an additional five cents an hour was added to the present wage rates. It also provides that another 13 cents added in the last two years under a cost of living escalator clause become part of the basic wage rate. Thus, the escalator provision which was put ineffect in April 1951 was ended.

An additional week's vacation for all union members with 15 or more years of service also was provided, bringing their paid vacations to three weeks.

Wage scales, which vary according to locality and job factors, are estimated at $14.50 a day for yard workers and $13.50 for road workers. The union represents conductors, switchmen, brakemen and dining car stewards.

JOIN DELAWARE BOARD

DELAWARE—Two new members of the Jane M. Case Hospital Board of Trustees are Prosecutor Clyde E. Lewis and William S. Schaeffer. Reynol V. Ullom and Donald Mackley were renamed to the board after filling two unexpired terms. Lewis replaces Harold C. Burrell, retiring president of the board, and Schaeffer succeeds Harry Humes.

Christmas Party Held By Marion Auto Agency

Forty-five employes of the Marion Lincoln-Mercury Co. attended the firm's annual Christmas party at the Hotel Harding Wednesday night.

A dinner was followed by a short meeting consisting of short talks, presentation of the annual Christmas bonuses and a gift exchange. Robert A. McMahon, president and general manager, presided.

After the meeting, the remainder of the evening was spent socially.

ADDRESSES O.S.U. GRADS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dr. John D. Millett, president of Miami University at Oxford, was to address 597 autumn quarter graduates of Ohio State University at 2 p.m. today. Receiving suma cum laude degrees will be Amy Louise Henzy, Newark, bachelor of science in occupational therapy; Patricia Campbell Bevan Columbus, bachelor of science in education, and Timothy Arnett Harrison, Columbus, bachelor of agricultural engineering.

Harding's Cagers Open Action in Buckeye League

Prexies Host to BG Squad In Bid for Sixth Victory

Jim Lawler's Harding charges open their Buckeye League season tonight at the Harding gymnasium against Bowling Green.

The locals will be seeking their fifth win after losing their first last week to Columbus West 74-71. The visitors have practically the same team back that advanced to the regional tourney last year and dropped Harding in the Buckeye League opener there.

Bowling Green has compiled a 2-1 mark so far with Jerry Buckles and Phil Ward leading the way. Buckles, 6-0, and Ward, 6-2, both forwards, have accounted for 43 and 39 points respectively in wins over Toledo Clay 54-51 and Toledo Whitmer 57-50 and a 62-55 loss to Bellevue.

Remainder of the visitors lineup will probably have Jim Graham, 6-3, at center and Jim Rice, 5-9, and either Jack Whittaker, 5-8, or Joe Soffios, 5-7, at the guard slots.

Harding will be in top shape for the game. Gene Armstrong, who was sidelined with tonsilitis and later with a sprained ankle, and Joe Snouffer, who had been nursing a football shoulder injury, are back.

Coach Lawler will likely go with Ron Conroy, 5-8½, and Don Smith, 5-7, at the guards; Doug Bibler, 5-7, and Bob Hamor, 5-11, at the forwards; and Dave Schnelker, 6-2, at center.

Conroy is currently the spark of the Harding attack. He has dropped in 86 points in wins over Bexley 61-47, Galion 72-38, Willard 96-35 and Columbus Aquinas 66-57 and the loss to Columbus West. Hamor is Harding's next highest scorer with 62 markers.

The locals will be using a shifting man-to-man with a forecourt press on defense and fast break on offense. The visitors have been using a semi-fast breaking offense but reports indicate that Coach Wells Gorman will slow down his attack against the Prexies as he feels his boys are not fast enough to match the fast breaking locals. The Bobcats will use a straight zone defense against Harding.

Last season, Bowling Green took the first league encounter 58-49 there but Harding came back to trip the visitors here 53-36.

Irish 'Injury' Voted Season's Top Incident

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame's much-discussed "injured player" time-out in its Nov. 21 deadlock with the Iowa Hawkeyes popped up again today to be voted college football's "most unusual incident" in an Associated Press poll of sportswriters and sportscasters.

The Irish "incident," which brought forth nationwide expression of pros and cons, easily won out over the Duke-Navy "short count" and the collapse of Frank Leahy during the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech game Oct. 24.

The N.D.-Iowa controversy, labeled by some who balloted as the "big faint" and "the dying swan act," was one of the most heated in recent seasons.

It was set off by tackle Frank Varrichione who—with only seconds remaining in the first half, the Irish trailing 7-0 and already having used up its allotment of five time-outs — suddenly clutched at his back and legs and fell to the ground. A time-out was called, following which quarterback Ralph Guglielmi fired a 12-yard touchdown pass to end Dan Shannon to tie the score.

The Duke-Navy "three downs" affair came in the third quarter of their Nov. 7 game. With the ball on Navy's 16 in Duke's possession, the officials inadvertently allowed the Blue Devils only three plays before handing the ball over the Midshipmen. The game ended in a scoreless tie.

Leahy's collapse, later attributed to muscle spasms, occurred during halftime, while the Notre Dame coach was walking into his team's dressing room. He was taken to a hospital during the third quarter but the Irish went to win 27-14.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

Even though basketball has been with us for nearly a month a lot of die-hard football fans just won't forget the recent grid season.

SHORT

Topping the list of conversation pieces are Ohio State's Buckeyes and their coach, Woody Hayes. A recent announcement by Dick Larkins, OSU athletic director, that Hayes would be back in 1954 has brought forth a variety of opinions.

Many fans are wondering what promoted the decision to retain Hayes when coaches with far-better records have been asked to depart. The OSU team, with a host of veteran performers, opened the 1953 season as heavy favorites to spend New Year's Day in Pasadena. Their 6-3 mark leaves them watching the Rose Bowl from the comfort of their living rooms.

Hayes took over in 1951 and after installing his "system" finished with a 4-3-2- mark. During that campaign, the running, passing and kicking ability of Vic Janowicz was junked and the player, who the year before was the country's top hero, was used almost exclusively on defense.

The next season, 1952, the 'aight T was abandoned in favor a Split T attack. That move netted a 6-3 mark but the season was a success after a 27-7 win over Michigan in the finale.

The two coaches immediately before Hayes left the Ohio campus with better marks because of undue pressure. Carroll Widdoes notched a 7-2 record in 1945 and left for Ohio University. Wes Fesler walked away after his team won six and lost three in 1950 and followed with a Rose Bowl victory.

Hayes boosters are starting their rosy forecasts for next year already. Other fans are a little less enthusicastic. Many of them wanted to see Massillon's Chuck Mather get a crack at the OSU job.

Bowling

Marge Krausz cracked a sparkling 220-598 to set the pace in the Thursday Afternoon Ladies League at Palace Recreation. Three games of 180 or over were rolled. May's Jewelers with 757-2199 led the teams.

A 232-582 by Ken Thome paced bowlers in the Fraternal League at Marion Recreation. Moose No. 1 copped team honors with its 882-2493.

Jin Steele's 259 and Gene Mull's 675 led the way in the Classic League where eight 600 series were posted and 28 games over 200 were rolled. Other high series were C. Schrader's 611, W. Barber's 608, J. Steele's 619, Don Anderson's 609, W. Burgin's 616, H. Peifer's 600 and W. Bennett's 618. Team honors were taken by Smart & Waddell with 1009 and Marion Recreation with 2884.

Mary Prior's 210-489 led the women in the Marion Engineer Depot League where men were paced by Everett Snyder's 222 and Keith Malott's 533. Pearl Harris hit 203 and Burchel Cornett rolled 202 there also. Corny's Cats' 809-2258 led the teams.

Chuck Baker hit 215 while John Drollinger rolled 559 to show the way in the Industrial League. Marion Power Shovel totaled 880-2588 there for team laurels.

Brownies Prep For Detroit in Clash for Title

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Browns, bolstered with outstanding rookies and free from injuries, should be a lot tougher for the Detroit Lions to handle in this year's championship game.

The Browns, staggering to the end of their worst season, lost the 1952 playoff to the Lions—partly because the best Cleveland half back, Dub Jones, and the top end, Mac Speedie, were on the bench with injuries.

Coach Paul Brown got his Clevelanders "up" for their best effort of that season in that game, but it was still not enough and Detroit won the National Football League title, 17-7.

Brown started rebuilding immediately.

He signed six rookies who won starting positions.

That resulted in 11 wins and a single loss this season and makes the Browns the favorites by one touchdown in betting on the game.

Coach Buddy Parker, who has not lost a game to Cleveland since he took over the Lions, will have trouble recognizing the Cleveland team.

The rookies he will be watching are end Doug Atkins, guards Gene Donaldson and Chuck Noll, center Tom Catlin, half back Billy Reynolds and safetyman Ken Konz.

Duquesne Cops Sixth Straight, Eyes Tourney

NEW YORK (AP)—Third ranking Duquesne and 10th ranking Western Kentucky added new links to their basketball victory chains last night and now should continue unbeaten at least until the holiday tournaments.

The Dukes from Pittsburgh made it six in a row at the expense of the touring University of Texas 71-58 and Western Kentucky won its eighth straight 78-55 over an outclassed St. Francis of Brooklyn quintet in Madison Square Garden.

Duquesne has a game with Toledo left before the holiday festival in New York and Western faces St. Bonaventure in Buffalo, N. Y., prior to the Louisville invitational.

Western Kentucky breezed through the first three quarters against St. Francis, then coasted as the hustling Brooklyn club scored 28 points in the last 10 minutes. Tom Marshall, who has been averaging 28.7 points per game, scored only 22 last night.

Rice won its fifth straight in the other half of the Garden twin bill, outlasting St. John's of Brooklyn 85-81.

The NAIA small college holiday tournament opened in Kansas City with East Texas State beating Findlay 79-68; Hamline defeating Rockhurst 81-68; Illinois Wesleyan upsetting Missisippi Southern 77-71 and Southwest Missouri breezing past Nebraska Wesleyan 86-50.

Joe Bertrand set a Notre Dame scoring record of 35 points as the Irish trounced Loyola of Chicago 81-65.

The worst defeat ever suffered by a Notre Dame football team was the 59-0 drubbing from Army in 1944.

AAA Loop Clears Way for Admitting Two New Members

WASHINGTON (AP)—The International League was bidding fair today to live up to its name by stretching 2,000 miles from Montreal, Canada, to Havana, Cuba.

The Triple-A baseball league yesterday cleared the next to last roadblock to adding Havana and Richmond, Va.

One more minor hurdle remains. Richmond must come up by Jan. 5 with a ball park that meets International League standards. The city's mayor, Edward E. Haddock, has promised to supply the proper kind of park.

Havana's entrance into the league is entirely dependent on the Richmond situation. If, by some chance, the Virginia city muffs the ball park problem, the International League will revert to a six-team loop.

Curfew Broken

Guglielmi, Heap Suspended At Notre Dame; To Reapply

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Quarterback Ralph Guglielmi and halfback Joe Heap, suspended by Notre Dame for breaking curfew, will be permitted to apply for readmission in February.

The two juniors, regulars on the undefeated Irish football team this season, admitted last night they had been suspended after a tardy return to the campus following a celebration of Notre Dame's 40-14 season-ending victory over Southern Methodist Dec. 5.

The weekend curfew for all students at the university is 12:30 a. m. Heap said he and Guglielmi were "about 20 minutes late."

The Rev. Theodore Hesbugh, Notre Dame president, would neither deny nor confirm the suspensions. He said the school has a strict policy against public announcements of such kind.

However, Heap told reporters at Memphis, where he attended a prep football banquet, that "it's true—Ralph and I violated a minor rule at the university and we have to accept the consequences."

Guglielmi, attending a Moose club sports celebration in Rock Island, Ill., had no comment other than he would apply for readmission.

Guglielmi's mother was just as surprised when reached at her home in Columbus, Ohio.

"I expect Ralph home tomorrow,' she said. 'I talked to him by phone Tuesday and he didn't mention any suspension. Ralph got in 20 minutes late the night after the Southern Methodist game. We were with him after the game and brought him back to school about 11 oclock." (This actually would be 1½ hours before the weekend curfew was effective.)

Al (Dusty) Stefano, basketball coach at St. John's University, was stationed at Pearl Harbor on that infamous day — Dec. 7, 1941. He was in the Army.

Globetrotters, Sphas Ready For Coliseum Play Tonight

Basketball's No. 1 attraction, the world-famous Harlem Globe-trotter basketball team, headlines the professional doubleheader at Veterans Memorial Coliseum tonight. The amazing Negro magicians of basketball, now in their 27th season of fabulous exploits, play the Philadelphia Sphas in the feature game.

Owner Abe Saperstein of the Trotters will present his greatest team in many years headed by the one and only Clown Prince of basketball, Reece "Goose" Tatum. Other familiar Trotters are Ermer Robinson, Josh Grider, Clarence Wilson and J. C. Gipson.

Newcomers are Walter Dukes, the nation's outstanding college player who led Seton Hall to the National Invitational title last year, Junius Kellogg of Manhattan and Leon Hilliard, the new dribbling sensation from Chicago.

The Sphas, who are now playing their 36th consecutive season, have been in existence longer than even the Trotters and will present an array of former eastern scholastic and collegiate stars.

The Toledo Mercurys and Washington Generals will open tonight's program starting at 8 p.m. Toledo boasts a lineup composed of several former Toledo U., Bowling Green, DePaul and Loyola aces while Washington's squad of former eastern college stars is led by Louis "Red" Klotz, basketball's mighty mite who played at Villanova and more recently with the Baltimore Bullets and Philadelphia Sphas.

Between-halves entertainment provided by the Globetrotter management will feature Jerry Sims, accordion ace; the Garners, trampoline duo; the Rudenkos, juggling experts, and the Farias Duo, Cuban balancers. Doors at the Coliseum will open at 7 p.m. and plenty of good seats at all prices are available.

St. Mary Preps For Tiffin Tilt Saturday Night

St. Mary will go after its third win in four starts on the Coliseum floor tomorrow night.

A rugged Tiffin Calvert squad will provide the opposition. The visitors have practically the same squad that handed the locals an 83-69 defeat last season.

The Irish had a little trouble hitting the basket Tuesday when they downed Fostoria St. Wendelin 43-33. However, it was the locals first appearance this season on the large Coliseum floor and their shooting eyes should be accustomed to that court by tomorrow night.

Red-headed Mike Anderson will be leading the Irish in their encounter tomorrow. He's the team's top scorer, racking up 52 points in three contests. Roger Micheli is second high man with 34.

Coach Ray Robbins uncovered two possible high-scorers last Tuesday. In the first time either one has seen any real action this year, Johnny Messenger netted 10 points and Pat O'Connor eight.

So far this season, St. Mary has slipped by Carey 55-50 and Fostoria St. Wendelin 43-33, while losing to Mt. Gilead in a Mid-Ohio Conference game 53-51.

St. Mary's reserves will be after their third win in the preliminary contest. The junior Irish have registered wins over Mt. Gilead and Fostoria.

Action tomorrow night at the Coliseum is scheduled to get underway with the reserve tilt at 7.

Stauffer Awarded Trophy at Bucyrus

BUCYRUS — The Walter R. Michael athletic trophy, annually awarded to the outstanding Bucyrus High School football player by a secret vote of his teammates, was awarded yesterday to Robert "Bob" Stauffer, 17-year-old senior center.

Stauffer was co-captain of this year's team with Glen "Sonny" Butterman, outstanding backfield star who made the All-Northern Ohio League team. The team won three games and lost six.

The trophy is the gift of Walter R. Michael, Bucyrus industrialist and one-time cage star. A similar trophy is given each year by Mr. Michael to the school's outstanding basketball player. Last year's winner of the football trophy was Robert Barth.

Coach Richard Frantz presented varsity letters to 22 players. Lettermen included Stauffer, Butterman, Bud Armstrong, Jerry Kenefake, Bill Kennedy, Dick Rehm, Dan Rife, Bob Rothhaar, Forest Rowe, Tom Smith, Jerry Volkmer and Ron Yaussy, all seniors; Juniors Frank Barth, Ned Bibler, Ron Flock, Ray Foreman, Fred Frey, Fred Stansberry, John Sullivan and Harold Weithman, Sophomore Bob Seele and Freshman John Boorn.

Kenton Jrs. Defeat Edison in Overtime

Edison Junior High School was overtaken in the final period and then blanked in an overtime session as Kenton's Junior High squad notched a 40-37 win on the losers floor Thursday.

George Whitehead's charges led most of the way and were in command and 29-24 at the three-quarter mark but Kenton tied it up in the final stanza and then blanked Edison in the overtime.

Big factor in the defeat was the loss of Phil Sykes in the fourth quarter and Edison's inability to hit on foul shots. Sykes, who paced the Edison squad with 25 points, fouled out midway in the final canto. Edison outscored Kenton from the field but connected on only nine of 24 attempts at the foul line.

Claphan with 13 points and Spencer with 10 led the winners' attack. Edison's next action comes when it takes on Eber Baker in a Marion Junior High School League clash.

Paddy Young, Billy Graham In TV Match

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Paddy Young is a 7-5 favorite to spoil welterweight contender Billy Graham's bid for middleweight laurels in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Graham, 31, boasting a victory over third-ranking middleweight contender Joey Giardello and a draw with second-ranking Rocky Castellani, has decided to aim for Bobo Olson's 160-pound crown.

A veteran of 120 pro bouts in 13 years of fighting for cash, Graham is spotting his fellow New Yorker 10 pounds and six years in the 10-rounder. Billy will weigh about 150 to Paddy's 160.

The question mark in this fight is just how much zip Graham has left in his legs. Billy needs plenty of spring for his left-jabbing, counterpunching style of boxing. If he's lost it, he'll be a target for the 25-year-old Paddy's smashing left hooks and body assault.

There's a lot of betting locally on the catchweight match. The odds switched back and forth from the time the two signed but in the last few days the heavier cash has been going for Young.

Bruins, Marion Tied for Third In IHL Battle

An evening's layoff last night cost the Marion Barons their sole possession of third place in the International Hockey League race.

While the local club was idle, Troy knocked off Ft. Wayne 3-2 to vault from fifth place into a third-place tie with the Barons.

Other league action last night was in the lower levels where Toledo downed Louisville 5-3.

The two third-place clubs will attempt to break the tie Sunday afternoon when they both see action. The Bruins will entertain second-place Cincinnati, while Marion will meet league-leading Johnstown at the Coliseum. Game time in Marion is 3 p.m.

Marion has a 2-1 record against the pace-setting Jets.

There's plenty of weekend action in the league with every team except Ft. Wayne slated for at least one game.

The whole circuit is quiet tonight, but tomorrow night it's Cincinnati at Grand Rapids, Louisville at Toledo and Milwaukee at Johnstown. In the other game Sunday Milwaukee will be at Louisville.

Pleasant Juniors Win Over Donians

Pleasant's junior high school cage crew jumped past Caledonia 44-35 yesterday after coming from behind at the half.

The Donians were ahead by a 23-22 margin at the half but their attack faltered inthe fading minutes of play. John Peacock pumped in 12 points and Richard Dutt netted 11 for the Pleasant team. Pacing the Caledonia attack were Swiesher with 12 and Detwiler with 11.

PLEASANT

Yankees Peddle Stadium; Price Set at $6½ Million

NEW YORK (AP)—The world champion New York Yankees will play ball next season in a stadium owned by a Chicago real estate firm located on land owned by the Knights of Columbus but it will still be the "House That Ruth Built"

Del Webb and Dan Topping, co-owners of the baseball club, sold Yankee Stadium and Blues Stadium in Kansas City yesterday for 6½ million dollars.

They sold to the Arnold Johnson Corp. of Chicago, headed by Arnold Johnson. Johnson then sold the land under Yankee Stadium and the adjacent parking lots—about four acres of ground—to the Knights of Columbus for 2½ million dollars.

Next, Johnson rented back the land from the K. of C. and then leased the whole works back to the Yankees. Johnson kept the Kansas City park.

Everybody seemed happy about the tremendous and complicated deal.

Webb and Topping, along with Larry McPhail, paid only $2,800,000 in 1945 for both ball parks, the Yankee ball club, its players and all equipment, the Kansas City ball club and its players and the Newark ball club. In 1947 Webb and Topping bought out McPhail for two million dollars.

Tax experts said that on their pofit of some 3½ million dollars Webb and Topping will pay a capital gains tax of about 26 per cent or roughly $900,000.

None of the parties would reveal the Yankee rental but most guesses ranged around $150,000. In addition the Yankee ball club will pay the taxes on the stadium

The tax experts said Webb and Topping improved their tax position here, too, since they will be able to charge off the rental cost as expense deductible from gross income About the only deductions they could claim as owners were upkeep and taxes and they will still get to charge these off also.

Johnson's lease on the land could run as long as 70 years. He also has the privilege of buying back the land after 15 years for three million dollars.

The Knights of Columbus get the stadium property when Johnson's lease on the land runs out.

Webb and Topping said the deal had nothing to do with their base ball club. "We are merely getting out of the real estate business," Topping said.

Team Match Goes To Vian and Baker

Violet Vian and Barbara Baker teamed up to take the main event of the Thursday night wrestling card from Betty Hawkins and Judy Glover.

The losers took the first fall when Hawkins pinned Baker in 14 minutes. Baker came back strong to pin Glover after only 30 seconds. Vian won the third fall when Glover was disqualified for not breaking at the count of five.

Gino Angelo won the semi-final bout in straight falls from Paul Orth. The first was won with a back drop after 12 minutes and the second came after Orth was disqualified for roughing.

Jim Lewis won the 30-minute opener from Sandro Fozo with a reseverse full nelson after 16 minutes.

Judge Ruzzo Talks At Yule Party of Probst Supply Co.

Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo was guest speaker at the Christmas party held by employes of Probst Supply Co. Thursday at Hotel Harding. Judge Ruzzo spoke to the group about juvenile delinquency and traffic.

He said juvenile delinquency in Marion County and the rest of the country was increasing but most of the increase has been brought about by an increase in the number of traffic violations by juveniles.

About 45 persons attended the party, including one out-of-town guest, Paul Weigler of Lexington, O. The room and tables were decorated with Christmas trees, gift packages, packages of Christmas cookies, and white candles, wrapped in green and white ribbon.

Group singing was led by Robert Haldeman. The remainder of the evening was spent playing games. Members of the program committee were R. E. Smith, chairman, assisted by Walter Keck, Robert Haldeman, John Willerton and Donald Hunter. Heading the committee handling decorations and general arrangements was Miss Irene Hall. She was aided by Miss Gloria Marshall, Miss Glada Shelton, Miss Betty Stanley, and Miss Nancy Trumbo.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will make an appeal for world peace in a television and radio talk to the nation Christmas Eve.

The President, probably with Mrs. Eisenhower at his side, will speak for about three minutes from the White House at about 4:30 p.m. EST Thursday.

Then he and the first lady will go to the White House south lawn and take part in the traditional lighting of the nation's Christmas tree. Eisenhower will speak briefly at that ceremony, too.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP) — Television stocks were firm today in an irregular stock market.

Radio Corp. was in demand at higher prices, but the other TV stocks were ahead without much activity.

Attention on the television issues followed federal government approval of a system of color television that can be picked up in black and white as well.

Gains and losses amounted to fractions throughout the list with the plus signs holding an edge.

Higher stocks included Southern Railway, 20th Century-Fox, American Telephone, U.S. Steel, Chrysler Motorola, and Philco.

Lower were Goodrich, Kennecott Copper, Dow Chemical, General Electric, and Paramount Pictures.

Three Officials Named For Phantom Building

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Philadelphia Board of Judges just won't give up.

The City Council appropriated $300,000 in 1918 to build a "house of detention for witnesses and untried prisoners." It never was built because the money was spent on prisons.

But the Board of Judges, without fail, has continued to appoint three managers for the phantom institution every two years.

"We're just keeping the thing alive," Judge Raymond MacNeille said when he announced the reappointment of three managers for the non-existent institution.

WRECKED BOMBER SIGHTED

LONDON (AP)—The broken wreckage of a missing American Navy patrol bomber was sighted today on a bleak Iceland glacier. First reports said there are survivors among the nine-man crew.

BEAR NEEDED HELP

KENMORE, N. Y. (UP) — Ken Behrens is responsible for this story of a bear that knew what to do when lost in Allegheny State Park. Behrens explained that he was driving through the park when suddenly the big brown animal flagged him down and sauntered over to the car. Behrens offered the bear a sandwich, but the animal spurned it. Instead, it grabbed a road map and ambled off.

$8,000 Inheritance Awarded to Horse

TOPEKA, Kan. (UP)—There will be no shortage of hay the rest of his life for October Moon, a bay saddle horse.

The 17-year-old favorite of the late Malcolm Smith has nearly $8,000 in the bank to pay for his every need.

A retied railroader, Smith was the last member of his immediate family. He became deeply attached to the gentle, friendly horse he bought at a stable dissolution sale a dozen years ago.

Horseback riding became an overpowering hobby. He rode October Moon daily, as long as his health permitted.

October Moon, of course, won't outlive the trust fund set up for him under the terms whereby $30 a month is to be spent to provide for his care. On that basis the bay would be without financial worries for 22 years.

When the horse dies, the balance in the October Moon Trust fund will be turned over to the Shawnee County Humane Society, as provided in Smith's will.

RESUSCITATION GAUGE

DUNEDIN, N.Z. (UP) — Resuscitation methods can be more accurately taught with a gauge invented here. The gauge, designed by L. Piper, measures the pressure the resuscitator is applying to the patient's back and lungs, enabling him to maintain the 28 pounds pressure that has been established as the most beneficial.
